HIGHER FREIGHT RATES GET O. K. OF COMMISSION

Pulpwood, Dock Coal and Several Other Items Exempted from List

TIME LIMIT IS SET

Emergency Increases to Remain in Effect Until March 31, 1933

Madison — (AP)—With exemptions for pulpwood, excelsior wood and bolts, chemical wood and dock coal the State Public Service commission today authorized the railroads to put into effect in Wisconsin the emergency freight rate increases recently authorized by the Interstate Commerce commission.

The state body decided after a hearing that the financial condition of the railroads operating is such as to require the emergency increases but for various economic reasons held that the boost must not apply to the exempted wood products and dock coal.

The increases are to be published in tariff form and to take effect upon one day's notice. They will remain in effect until March 31, 1933.

Pulpwood was exempted at the request of the Wisconsin Grange and the various paper mills. Testimony showed that 50 to 75 per cent of the pulpwood used in the state is produced by farmers who would not be able to stand an increase in freight rates.

Andasmuch as logs had been exempted the state commission said it could find no justification in hiking the rates on chemical wood and excelsior bolts.

The commission also heeded the pleas of the paper mill and coal dock operators that to make the increase apply to dock coal would mean a doubling of the emergency rates because an increase already has been applied to the commodity on its rail movement to lake ports.

Specifically, the exemption on dock coal means that shipped after April 1, 1932.

In all other respects the emergency increases are only those that the Interstate Commerce commission allowed and they do not apply to rates on general farm products in raw state and livestock.

List of Increases

Increases granted follow:

One cent per 100 pounds on tobacco, leaf, stems, cuttings, siftings, scraps or sweepings; cottonseed, seed, meal, fruits and vegetables; finished stone; asphalt, fuels, oils, cement, lime, ice, fertilizer, millwork, tar, animal or poultry feed.

Two cents a 100 pounds on all commodities not otherwise mentioned or in less than carload lots.

Six cents per ton on coal, coke, metal ores, gravel and sand and a majority of mine products.

Twelve cents a ton on rough stone, phosphate rock, sulphur, clays, shale, slate, lumber, lath, and shingle, boxes, crates, cooperage, wood, bark and briquettes.

Limitations set up on rate increases are that none shall be more than 10 per cent of the former charge, that if a carload consists of commodities sold in bulk, the increase per car shall not be more than $7.50, that if the increase was 2 cents per 100 pounds, not more than $10 increase per car; if 6 cents per ton, not more than $3 increase in the car rate; if 12 cents per ton, increase not more than $5 more per car.

All switching charges are increased 10 per cent except on farm products and livestock.

Railroads' Pleas

The Wisconsin railroads originally applied for the general 15 per cent increases which were sought on a nationwide scale but which the Interstate Commerce commission refused to allow.

They then filed a new application for the emergency increases that the federal body proposed.

As indicative of the financial condition of the railroads operating in Wisconsin the Public Service commission cited the Milwaukee road.

Despite the fact that it had reduced operating cost by $40,000,000 its operating income was shown to have dwindled from $29,119,053 in 1928 to $7,992,147 in 1931. In 1931 income was reported as about half the amount needed to meet fixed interest charges not taking into account other necessary expense.

"The experience of other Wisconsin roads has been similar," the commission said.

The Chicago and Northwestern had operating incomes in 1931 of $6,486,461 but had to meet $14,999,037 alone.

Death Takes 2 Members Of Congress

Democrats Lose Two Seats in House as Georgian and Mississippian Die

Washington — (AP)—Representatives Percy Quinn of Mississippi, and Samuel Rutherford of Georgia, died within less than an hour of each other today of heart attacks.

Quinn, a veteran of almost 20 years service in the house, had been ill for more than a month. Rutherford dropped dead while shaving at his hotel. He had been a member since 1925.

Both were Democrats. Their deaths, the first since Huey Long of Louisiana took his oath of office a week ago to give congress its full membership for the first time this session, brought the present house standing to 218 Democrats, 218 Republicans, 218 Farm-Labor 1, and three vacancies.

Quinn was elevated to the chairmanship of the house military affairs committee when the Democrats took control of the house at the opening of the session.

He had been a student of the Muscle Shoals problem during the years that it had been before that committee and was conducting a hearing to formulate a bill for the disposal of the huge government properties when he became ill about a month ago.

He was removed from the committee room to his office and thence to a naval hospital where he had been since. A heart attack early today brought death before his wife could reach his bedside.

Rutherford had been in apparent good health. Mrs. Rutherford was with him when he died.

Quinn was 58 and had been in congress since March 4, 1913. He represented Pike-co in the Mississippi legislature from 1900 to 1902.

Rutherford was a member of the elections, accounts, immigration, patents and pensions committees. He had taken a particular interest in immigration matters.

The Georgian was 61 years old and had served in the house since 1919. After serving as mayor, solicitor of city court and in both branches of the Georgia legislature, he was elected to the national house of representatives.

MELLON TO BE ENVOY, MILLS TREASURY HEAD

Secretary Named U. S. Ambassador to England by President Hoover

Washington — (AP)—Ogden Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, was named formally by President Hoover today to be secretary of the treasury, succeeding Andrew Mellon. The announcement of Mills' succession was made while he sat in conference in a nearby room with President Hoover.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Arthur A. Ballantine will succeed Undersecretary Mills.

Washington — (AP)—Andrew W. Mellon will go to London as United States ambassador, resigning immediately the treasury secretaryship he has held for 11 years.

Ogden L. Mills of New York, now undersecretary, will succeed him.

Mellon's acceptance of the country's most important diplomatic post was announced late last night by President Hoover, just a few hours after it was learned the portfolio had been tendered the veteran statesman. The tense condition of international relations, the all-important economic problems now facing the world, said the president, dictated the selection, requiring as they do "experience and judgment of the highest order."

The formal appointment is expected to go to the senate directly. There, despite the presence of numerous and bitter foes to Mellon's financial policies, confirmation without delay has been predicted. Mills, for the past two years virtual director of most treasury affairs, also is promised ready approval.

Mellon is 77. He left a career of banking and industry to enter the cabinet in March, 1921. Through the post-war readjustment and the en-

Motor Tankship Destroyed After Four Explosions Set Vessel Ablaze

Marcus Hook, Pa. — (AP)—The Sun Oil company announced this afternoon that the list of dead in the explosion on the oil tanker Bidwell early today has reached 17, with 2 men still missing.

Marcus Hook, Pa. — (AP)—Twelve men are known to have been killed, a number are missing and a woman and four men were injured to day when four explosions wrecked and set fire to the motor tankship Bidwell, Capt Joseph Rivers, 40, master of the vessel, was among those who died.

The explosions occurred at a pier at the foot of Market-st where the vessel had been unloading a cargo of gasoline yesterday.

Those missing are believed to have been trapped in the hold of the fire-swept ship, or to have drowned.

Six charred bodies were found in the upper decks of the ship today. One body was found in the captain's cabin.

A statement issued by the Sun Oil company, owner of the ship, said the company had been unable to ascertain the cause of the explosion. The Bidwell had a crew of 37. Most of them were asleep and 15 were cleaning a hold when the first blast occurred. The tanker came here Monday from Smith's Bluff, Texas.

The Bidwell was built in Baltimore in 1920 and was used to transport fuel from Texas to the refineries at Marcus Hook. It was chartered to the Sinclair Oil company.

"There are a number of persons unaccounted for and five definitely missing," said a statement issued by the Sun Oil company, owner of the tanker. "There are three identified dead and at least three unidentified bodies in the hold of the ship. We are making every effort to check upon all missing persons. We have been unable to ascertain the cause of the explosions."

The Bidwell was tied up at a dock of the Sinclair Oil company when the first blast came. There were about 35 men in the crew, most of them asleep, and 15 in a cleaning gang at work in a hold, when the first blast came.

The Bidwell, a 7,050-ton vessel docked on Monday, bringing gasoline to the Sun Oil company refineries from Smith's Bluff, Texas.

Rose Allen Called Back As Witness

Judge Limits Questioning to Employment of Private Counsel for Girl

Norristown, Pa. — (AP)—Rose Allen, who testified yesterday in the trial of her brother, Edward, charged with murdering Francis A. Donaldson, that he had threatened to blow Donaldson's head off, was recalled to the witness stand.

The permission to recall her was not granted until arguments had been made before the court, with the jury absent.

"We wish to show the bias of this witness and the manner in which she obtained counsel," William T. Connor of defense counsel, said. "It was a most unusual thing. This is a case of the highest importance. A girl stands in danger of death. This girl lied to her father when she said she was going out the night before the killing. She lied to her honor while on the stand that there was a gun in the locker downstairs of the hotel. We will show she made an entirely different statement to the police about the gun and the threat. There was no gun seen, it was ascertained by the police, which provided her with counsel."

During Connor's argument, Elmer A. Schroeder, Rose's counsel, sat near defense counsel table. He was ordered away by Connor and moved further back.

Frederick B. Smilie, an assistant district attorney, replying to Connor, said there was nothing to prevent the girl having private counsel, and there was no proof to show bias or motive in her being legally represented.

"There is a great feeling excited by this girl against her brother," said Smilie. "It is induced by what she claims was a wrong which was done her on that day."

Court's Ruling

Judge Harold G. Kunkel denied Rose's request for private counsel, the purpose of clearing up the question of whether she had private counsel Connor wanted more latitude in ex-

SALARY CUTS PROPOSED BY CITY COUNCIL

$3,340 to Be Slashed Off Pay Roll If Ordinance Is Adopted

Turning their backs on their former no-cut policy, the common council last night took the first steps in a general slashing of city official salaries by snipping a hundred here and a couple of hundred there, the council will save $3,340 if the ordinance is finally passed.

Two weeks ago the council ordered the publication of an ordinance which left salaries as they were during the past two years. With the revision of the ordinance last night, republication is necessary before the final vote can be taken. At an adjourned meeting on Feb. 13 the ordinance will be up for adoption, and if the revised list is defeated the old ordinance must remain in effect, as the deadline for setting salaries will prohibit another revision.

The proposed cut is not uniform. While the original intention was to make a 10 per cent reduction, it was agreed that this was a good time to bring the salary list into line. Consequently those salaries that for some time have been considered low were left as they were, and those that were thought to be high were given the benefit of the whole 10 per cent cut.

Engineer, Mayor Cut

The largest slash suggested is in the salary for the engineer, which many have felt was out of proportion. The cut was from $4,000 to $3,600. The mayor's salary went down from $3,000 to $2,700, and the aldermen took a $50 reduction, with committee services drawing the same remuneration.

A $200 drop in the salaries of the city clerk, treasurer, assessor, attorney, commissioner of streets and city nurse is proposed. If the ordinance is passed the former three will get $2,600 instead of $2,800, and the latter three $2,200 instead of $2,400. The salaries of plumbing inspector and deputy health commissioner were reduced from $1,800 to $1,650, the building inspector from $1,400 to $1,200, and the sealer of weights and measures from $1,700 to $1,500.

The auditor, who receives $540 from the city and $480 from the library, will get only $800 from the city if the ordinance is adopted. The salaries of the city physician, commissioner of poor, city home keeper and matron, and weigh master were left at $1,500, $1,600, $1,500 and $600, respectively.

It was impossible, because of ordinance, to make any change in the police and fire department wages, but there seems to be a general council sentiment that employees of these two departments should be asked to contribute a percentage of their salaries during the period of depression.

The hourly wage scale for city employees was arranged so that even figures could be used in computing earnings, a change which will affect the wages of the workers. The amounts range from 70 cents for class A labor to 30 cents for class J.

INVADERS FAIL TO DRIVE FOE OUT OF CHAPEL

Whole City of Shanghai Is Shaken by Terrific Gun-fire in Battle

STRUGGLE CONTINUES

Artillery Shell Kindles Group of Buildings in International Area

By the Associated Press

Japan has informed the United States and the great powers, with whom she is cooperating to end hostilities in the east that the Japanese forces will "immediately cease their disturbing activities" if the Chinese will do likewise.

Almost at the same time that this notification was given to the ambassadors at Tokyo, Japanese bluejackets in Shanghai renewed a slashing attack on the Chinese Chapel area, and the Chinese appeared to be holding their own.

The forts at Woosung withstood another terrific bombardment from Japanese warships in the Whangpo, but neither side appeared to have gained any important advantage.

While that engagement was going on 300 marines were landed at Shanghai from the U. S. S. Houston.

A full division of the Japanese army is to be sent to Shanghai to replace the bluejackets who have been there since last Friday, the government at Tokyo decided.

The Soviet ambassador called on the Japanese foreign minister regarding activities of Japanese forces in the Harbin area particularly with reference to the use of the Chinese Eastern railway, which Kwantung owns jointly, with China, for the transportation of Japanese troops.

There were unconfirmed reports in Shanghai that Admiral Shosawa, the Japanese naval commander, had committed suicide because of the government's action in replacing him with Admiral Nomura. The report was officially denied.

CHILD FOUND SLAIN IN NEW YORK CELLAR

5-year-old Girl Strangled—Authorities Hunting for Maniac

New York — (AP)—A five-year-old Brooklyn girl, Florence McDonnell, was found strangled to death today in a Brooklyn cellar.

She had been missing from her home since yesterday and Brooklyn police, armed with flashlights, had searched cellars, alleys and house-tops all night.

A widespread search for a maniac was immediately intensified. He was believed to have murdered another Brooklyn child last year, and attacked three others within the last two months.

The McDonnell child, a public school kindergarten student was the daughter of Thomas and Eileen McDonnell of Brooklyn. She was last seen at 2 o'clock p. m. yesterday two blocks from her home, and a few hours later the frantic parents appealed to police, declaring they believed she had been kidnapped.

The cellar where the body was found was only 75 feet from the little girl's home. A police emergency squad searching the cellar with flashlights came upon it.

Examination disclosed the girl, a golden-haired child with blue eyes, had been killed with a strand of picture wire twisted around her neck. The cellar in which she was found was beneath a store occupied until Monday by a band of roving gypsies, police were told. Mrs. Norma Creedon, neighbor of the McDonnell family, said she had rented the store to the Gypsies and that they moved out Monday. About 2 45 p. m. yesterday, she said, she saw them in an automobile driving past the McDonnell home.

JAP DELEGATE UNDER FIRE AT CONFERENCE

Geneva — (AP)—The world disarmament conference experienced and settled its first fight today.

The clash developed over an effort of Dr. Salvador de Madariaga, Spanish delegate, to prevent the Japanese from securing one of the 14 vice-presidencies of the conference.

Apparently intent on punishing Japan for her hostile activities in China, Dr. de Madariaga, former minister to Washington and noted writer and authority on international questions, had canvassed the delegates, urging the blackballing of Tameo Matsudaira, Japanese ambassador to London, who was proposed for one of the vice-presidential posts.

Madison — (AP)—After hearing arguments on several plans of settling the affairs of the defunct Capital City bank of Madison, Circuit Judge A. C. Hoppmann took the case under advisement here yesterday.

Thomas Herreid, acting commissioner of banking, is in favor of selling the bank's assets to the Security State bank but H. R. Bach, acting director of liquidation for the department, has proposed liquidation through the banking department.

State Senator Glen Roberts has proposed a reorganization of the institution. Judge Hoppmann will confer with officials of the state banking department.

Shea's victory sent the United States flag soaring to the top of the pole, denoting the first title award of the games that opened this morning and continues through Feb. 13.

It also gave the hosts of the international games a lead in the unofficial point score with 11 points by Shea's first. Canada gathered 9 by bunching three finalists and Evensen's second gave Norway 5.

The world speed record for 500 meters is 42 6-10 seconds, made in 1911 by Oslo by Clas Thunberg, who failed to come to the games.

Munich—"The war of liberation stands at the end of the policy of resistance, the goal of this policy, however, is gradually to accumulate the strength and power necessary finally to break our chains."

This sentence in Volume 12 of the National Socialist Library constitutes the kernel of the Hitler party's program. With telegraphic brevity this sentence summarizes the whole story of the Franco-German relationship. It defines most succinctly the risks that America in capital took in coming, not merely to Germany, but to Europe. It forecasts a development that will not be publicly debated at the disarmament conference but that will determine its every decision.

The foremost and the most common characteristic of European politics is the anxiety to avoid any mention of the possibility of war. Yet this possibility has determined the whole course of the Franco-German relationship. It is still deter-

9 DEAD AND 1,000 INJURED IN QUAKE

Santiago Residents Flee City in Fear of Another Earth Shock

Santiago, Cuba — (AP)—Fleeing thousands, virtually bearing their lives on their backs to escape a possible repetition of Wednesday's earthquake terror, left quake wrecked Santiago a dead city today.

Nine persons were known dead and approximately 1,000 of the 70,000 population were treated for major or minor injuries. The damage was officially estimated in excess of $10,000,000 by officials who surveyed the ruins left by one of the most destructive earthquakes to strike the city in the last 400 years.

The exodus of residents to the high hills that surround Santiago on three sides was in strange contrast to the flight of hundreds yesterday to the central plaza, where frenzied invocations were made to the patron saint of Cuba for protection against the earthquake.

Religious organizations continued their well organized work today and was promised from the vessels of the United States sailing fleet based at Guantanamo bay.

Mentioning the rehabilitation of the city was begun. The newspaper Diario de Cuba advocated a four point program of reconstruction, to include free food for destitute; immediate construction of a sewer system and rebuilding of the paving system, a year's moratorium of commercial bills; and payment to date of all government employees.

CONSULT SPIRITUALIST ON MISSING YOUTHS

Milwaukee — (AP)—The parents of Leo Wanck, 21, and Marvin Luedke, 21, Maribel youths missing since early Sunday, were here today conferring with a spiritualist who said he was of the opinion the boys were held captive in Milwaukee. Authorities took little stock in the spiritualist's ability to locate the youths.

The spiritualist said he believed he would be able to find the youths in a third story room in a house three blocks from Lake Michigan and east of the Milwaukee river.

Meanwhile, at Manitowoc deputy sheriffs used pike poles to sound the bottom of the Manitowoc river in the belief that the youths' car had crashed through the ice there and that the pair was drowned. Coast guardsmen from Two Rivers, Wis., morning were unable to drag the river because of the thickness of the ice.

ATTEMPT TO IDENTIFY ABANDONED AIRPLANE

West Palm Beach, Fla. — (AP)—An abandoned airplane, found upside down on the beach here today, was believed for a time to have been that in which pilot Val Chlek and four passengers disappeared between Miami and Bimini, Bahamas, Monday, but in investigation by Sheriff R. L. Baker proved the contrary.

The plane is in good condition, except that glass in the cabin had been shattered. It is a biplane and sits on two main planes, with the numbers N45747 on the wing and MC 270 on the tail.

Residents told him they saw a man run from the plane shortly after it turned over. Baker said the doors had been forced open and the pilots identification cards removed.

The sheriff said he believed the plane was a rum carrier, but he found no liquor in it.

President Asks Help Of All Citizens To Put End To Hoarding

CALLS CONFAB OF LEADERS TO DIRECT MOVE

Civic Leaders to Meet Saturday to Effect National Organization

Washington (AP)—A new advance in the national war to restore prosperity was on today, launched by President Hoover in a strong call for every citizen's help in putting a halt to hoarding.

He summoned last night a conference of civic leaders to plan a national organization to direct the movement. The group will meet here next Saturday, but without waiting for its action, state and city civic organizations were asked by Mr. Hoover to get busy.

The aim is to get an estimated billion and one-third back into banks and good investments. This sum, translated into terms of credit grows five or ten times, and credit, said the president, "is the blood stream of our economic life."

"The money now is idle in safety deposit boxes, in mattresses, teapots and under board—all the well-known hiding places—instead of at work in the banks which carry the load of furnishing capital to every vital operation of agriculture, industry and business."

"I am convinced," said Mr. Hoover, "that citizens hoarding currency or money do not realize its serious effect on our country.... Everyone hoarding currency injures not only his own prospects and those of his family, but is acting contrary to the common good. It is to their own interest that they should return it to circulation, as well as a patriotic service to the country as a whole."

Many Groups Included
The type of "war" Mr. Hoover's planning was well indicated by inclusion in his invitation of chambers of commerce, labor and agricultural associations, church and school groups, men's and women's civic service clubs, veterans and patriotic organizations as well as trade groups.

The chief executive foresaw success for his campaign, pointing out that in several communities spontaneous anti-hoarding movements have won as soon as citizens realized the effect upon their own town's life.

"If our people will give now the same service and give the same financial aid to our government and our institutions," said the president, "the same unity and solidarity of our people which they gave during the great war, we can overcome this situation."

He was supported by a statement from the reconstruction corporation directors, who called on every patriotic citizen to join in the movement.

The corporation is to have its loan-making well under way by the end of this week. Its last director, William McCarthy of Salt Lake City, was confirmed yesterday by the senate.

COL. LINDBERGH IS 30 YEARS OLD TODAY

Famous Aviator Flew Approximately 20,000 Miles During Last Year

New York (AP)—Today is Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's 30th birthday.

"Business as usual" applies to him as on previous birthdays—so far as any one can discover. The world is left to guess whether there'll be a crooked cake at the Lindberghs' Jersey home for Charles Augustus, Jr., now a toddling youngster, to admire. The last year has been an eventful one in the Lindbergh career. Twenty-thousand miles, more or less, would be a rough estimate of his year's air travels. The whole world followed his flight to the Orient with only less interest than his Atlantic crossing. He can tell his own son how he was feted by Eskimos, spilled into the Yangtze river and received uproariously in Japan.

He piloted the American Clipper, one of the largest American-made planes, on a trans-Pacific flight. He even made a speech to a freshman class at Princeton university. As for his popularity, it apparently shows no signs of waning. A process server can testify to that. He served Lindbergh with papers in a suit, boasted about it, and got hounded on the jaw by a Lindbergh fan.

Huey Long's Debut in Senate

The "no smoking" rule in the Senate didn't faze Senator Huey P. Long (left of Louisiana, for that cigar was still burning in his right hand when he entered the chamber of the upper house) to embark upon his senatorial career. And the former governor smashed another legislative precedent when he was escorted to the Vice President's desk by Minority Leader Joseph T. Robinson—with whom he's pictured here during the ceremonies—instead of by his colleague and political foe, Senator Edwin S. Broussard of Louisiana.

BONDS WRITTEN BY STATE TO INSURE PUBLIC DEPOSITS

Legislature Takes Over 70 Million Dollar's Worth of Insurance

Madison (AP)—The special legislative session took over $70,000,000 worth of insurance business for the state of Wisconsin.

That business was the writing of bonds to insure public money deposited with the banks which for the last 25 years have been protected by private surety companies.

The law requires that such deposits be bonded. The surety companies had suffered rather heavy losses in other states. It had become evident that they either would refuse this type of business in Wisconsin or would charge high premium rates.

The situation resulted in chapter 1 of the special session in which the state took over the responsibility by permitting the banks to receive public deposits and contribute to a new state insurance fund at an annual rate of one per cent of the average daily balance of such deposits.

As soon as the law went into effect banks were relieved of the necessity of putting on bonds or other security for new deposits and local treasurers were relieved of liability for loss through fault not their own.

The banking department has assembled information showing that the total of all public deposits in the state is about $70,000,000. The law has been in operation for two months and a big percentage of this amount is now covered by the state insurance fund.

As fast as old surety bonds retire new deposits will come under the law. The department estimates that three fourths of the $70,000,000 total will be covered by April and the remainder thereafter.

There was an especial need for prompt enactment of the law and one that was met through the cooperation of public officers and members of the banking fraternity. The legislature convened on November 24 and spend considerable time organizing and receiving the initial batch of bills. By December 10, all counties of the state had designated the banks that would be depositories for county funds and this required legal assurance of protection.

Hearing Same Day
The bill creating the state insurance fund was introduced simultaneously in both houses of the legislature. It was referred to the joint finance committee by the assembly. The committee held a hearing the same day and the assembly remained in session late in the afternoon to receive and pass the measure under a suspension of the rules.

This occurred on Thursday, Dec. 8, when a number of senators had gone to their homes for a weekend adjournment. Word was dispatched to them to come back and on Friday morning the bill went through the senate under a suspension of rules.

The following day it was signed by Governor LaFollette and became law in ample time to catch the deadline for the county fund deposits.

The $70,000,000 of public funds now on deposit is half of the $140,000,000 which the law allows so there is room for a heavy potential expansion of the new state bonding business.

The law covers all public moneys and has entirely done away with future bonding by private companies as long as it is on the statute books.

The one per cent rate of contribution the depository banks means that the state fund will total $700,000 for the first year. Authority is

JAP ADMIRAL DEFENDS ACTS AT SHANGHAI

Blames Persecution by Chinese for Armed Attack by Japanese Soldiers

(The following explanation of Japan's position in the present Sino-Japanese conflict was written for the Associated Press by Admiral Mineo Osumi, minister of the navy, who is in general charge over the activities of the blue-jackets and warships at Shanghai.)

BY ADMIRAL MINEO OSUMI (Navy Minister of Japan) (Copyright, 1932, Associated Press) Tokio (AP)—We think we owe the world an explanation of our activities at Shanghai in view of the misunderstandings and to avoid the result of misinformation concerning the present conditions here.

First and foremost, we have done nothing that was not justified by the strict need of protection for our nationals from the persecution of the Chinese soldiers and our actions have been entirely defensive and passive.

The trouble started Jan. 28. A Chinese force suddenly attacking us while we were, in pursuance of the previous agreement of the foreign warship commanders, proceeding to the stations allotted to us to guard. There was no alternative for us but to fire in return.

It is not common sense to believe that our handling of blue-jackets would assume an offensive against a force ten-fold larger. When the conflict began we had 2,000 against 30,000 Chinese. We had every disadvantage to suffer and nothing to gain by starting hostilities. We took the final action only because we were driven to the last extremity by the behavior of the Chinese soldiery.

Our force took up stations to protect Japanese residents according to the previous agreement with the military authorities of the other powers and the Chinese happened to launch their attack against this section. We were compelled to defend the point whether the attack was directed as an act of self-defense, pure and simple.

Defends Bombing
Criticism of the Japanese air bombing has been unnecessarily harsh. They could only arise from ignorance of the actual situation. That was the only choice left for our small force, facing overwhelming odds. Moreover, before the beginning of the bombing, we scouted carefully, identifying the points where the Japanese was massing in close formation and then gave full warning, allowing ample time for them to head.

We dropped bombs on their armored trains or points where they were operating artillery against us. All sorts of rumors abroad are calculated to breed ill feeling against Japan. For example, there is talk of increasing friction between Japanese and American sailors, or of the Japanese navy's lack of the co-operative spirit.

As far as we know there is absolutely no foundation for these stories. We honestly endeavored to co-operate with the foreign garrisons, as far as the local circumstances and the requirements of self defense permitted.

Our public in Japan also ought to dispel the notion that the Americans and British are unfriendly to us. They were very active in their efforts to restore order and stabilize the situation. They have been offering their good offices to save Shanghai from civil warfare. They have never tried deliberately to interfere to our disadvantage.

Such misunderstandings should be dispelled immediately. I hope the foreign public will make allowances for the fact that in inevitable hurry and confusion such as that at Shanghai, sometimes reports are called which, although honestly meant, do grave injustice to one party. Most of the charges against the Japanese navy at Shanghai appear to have resulted from such circumstances.

The world can trust the traditions and discipline of the Japanese navy.

TEACHERS TO ACT AGAINST SALARY CUTS

Badger Association Advises Members How to Mold Public Opinion

Madison (AP)—Seeking to mold public opinion against a reduction in the salaries of school teachers a committee of the Wisconsin Teachers' association issued a statement today advising fellow members how to proceed.

The committee is making a statewide economic survey among teachers which is not yet completed. The purpose of the survey is to show how the teacher, at present salary, stands in relation to other salaried government employees and to economic conditions generally.

The committee said it is doubtful whether the living costs of the teacher have decreased to any great extent.

"We believe that continuation of the present high levels of the schools, including the maintenance of teachers' salaries, is going to depend entirely upon the sentiment of the community," said the statement, which was signed by Charlotte Kohn, Florence Dodge, and Mrs. Hazel Campion, all of Madison; Mary L. Fox of Middleton, and C. A. Barfoot Sheboygan.

"There has been much publicity from those places where a cut in salaries has been proposed," the committee said. "There has not been so much from those places where salaries will be maintained at present levels or where salary schedules will be continued.

Plan Of Procedure
"As soon as it is decided in your community either to continue the salary schedule or maintain present levels please notify the chairman of this committee."

"In case salary cuts are being considered in your community, we suggest that you make a study of the economic status of the teacher."

"If communities know what the teachers and schools are doing for the children, we do not believe they will deliberately cut salaries, school expenses and the school term; eliminate necessities from the curriculum, or double the teacher load. We suggest therefore, that teachers keep in close touch with the community through their parent-teacher organizations and through other contacts they are able to make. If suspicions of the schools and the teachers is allowed to exist, it will be a factor in reducing salaries and other appropriations for school purposes."

The committee said that school costs have not increased in proportion to expenditures for luxuries and that the cost of education in 1932 was about the same as 1928 while other general governmental expenditures increased substantially.

Diabetics
If you have the slightest symptoms of Diabetes—such as excessive thirst, inordinate hunger, with loss of weight in spite of keen appetite, with nervousness, irritability, restlessness, anxiety over trifles and loss of strength—lose no time in reading one of the most instructive books of the day, "Back to Health from Diabetes."

It will be mailed free to anyone who will send his or her name and address to Sanborn Laboratories, 2148 Sanborn Building, Battle Creek, Michigan. It describes the Sanborn home treatment for diabetes and relates the experiences of many men and women of prominence who restored themselves to health after other treatments had failed.

The book has 64 pages bound in board covers and is a mine of authentic information for those who are suffering from Diabetes.

CARPENTERS WORK FOR LOWER WAGES

Accept 80 Cents Per Hour Instead of 90 Cents Until May 1

Members of the Carpenters' Union Local of Appleton, No. 955, are working for 80 cents an hour now, according to J. C. Mielke, secretary of the organization. Mr. Mielke said the new scale which was cut from 90 cents, has been in effect since Jan. 1 and that it will continue until May.

The Appleton local, No. 10, Bricklayers, Plasterers and Masons International union, voted to reduce their wage scale from $1.35 to $1.15 this week. This cut will be in effect until Jan. 1, 1933. Both groups felt that a reduction in the wage scale at this time might result in a stimulation of remodeling and building throughout the city.

Officers of the carpenters' union are: Carl Smith, president; August Larsen, vice president; Manley Burt, financial secretary; and Albert Roehl treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bannister will return from Hollywood, Calif., about Feb. 15 to remain here until June 1.

BOY SCOUT TROOPS PLAN PROGRAMS FOR ANNIVERSARY WEEK

Twenty-second Birthday to Be Observed Here Next Week

Valley council boy scout troops next will observe the twenty-second anniversary of the founding of the organization. It was announced this morning. Anniversary week will start Monday, Feb. 8, and continue until Saturday, Feb. 13. The anniversary is to be observed by thousands of scouts and leaders throughout the world.

Individual troops programs are being planned by scoutmasters and their assistants. Special programs will be held at the weekly meetings of troops.

The boy scout movement celebrates its birthday each year, Feb. 8 upon which date in 1810 the late William D. Boyce, Chicago publisher and two friends incorporated the Boy Scouts of America in Washington, D. C. thereby formally launching the movement in America.

"The 'good turn' performed by the London boy scout which led to the beginning of scouting in America, is a well authenticated fact related on many occasions by Mr. Boyce before his death a few years ago. As he told the incident, he had gone to England in the autumn of 1909 and was about to return to America. Mr. Boyce left his hotel to transact some business and was caught in the grip of one of the dense heavy fogs which were characteristic of London.

Refuses Tip
As he was trying to find his way about a boy approached him and asked, "May I be of service to you?" Mr. Boyce told the boy where he wished to go and the lad, saluting, said: "Come with me, sir," and led him to his destination. Mr. Boyce reached in his pocket and offered the boy a gratuity. The boy promptly replied: "No sir, I am a scout and scouts do not accept tips for courtesies which they have performed." Mr. Boyce, in surprise queried, "What did you say?" The boy repeated and then added: "Don't you know about the scouts?" It was then that the publisher decided to start the movement in America.

In the 22 years that have elapsed, more than 5,670,730 men and boys at one time or another have shared membership in the scout movement. In 1926 they expressed their regard for the unknown scout whose courtesy to Mr. Boyce in the London fog developed his interest in the movement, and presented a bronze buffalo to the British Boy Scouts association.

RESERVE OFFICERS WILL HEAR ABOUT SINO-JAP TROUBLES

Major F. U. McCoskrie, Fond du Lac, Will Speak Here Feb. 18

Major F. U. McCoskrie, regular army officer stationed at Fond du Lac and on duty with reserve units in the state, who served several years in China, will speak at the first meeting of the recently reorganized Appleton chapter of the Reserve Officers association Thursday evening, Feb. 18, at Conway hotel.

Major McCoskrie has had opportunity to study the situation in China and Japan through two years' service, which ended last October. He has spoken before several Wisconsin reserve groups and last Monday night he talked to the Madison chapter, his speech being broadcast over radio.

Belief of the Japanese that their emperor is the only man qualified to rule the world is one great threat to the peace of the Orient, he told the Madison officers. He also pointed out that there is bound to be trouble at Shanghai if Chinese troops come in, for they are ignorant and the majority will murder and pillage.

The Chinese soldier, in the opinion of the major, is the lowest form of social life there—the coolie is sure of his 10 cents a day, the soldier isn't. "They are ignorant, and one hasn't seen ignorance until one sees China."

Officers from Green Bay, Neenah and Menasha will be invited to hear Major McCoskrie. The evening's program will open with a dinner and a musical program.

Notices of the meeting will be sent to all officers in Outagamie-co from the Green Bay reserve office.

FILING OF STATE TAX BLANKS STARTS

15,000 Returns Sent Out Tuesday to Citizens of Two Counties

A small number of income tax blanks began trickling back into the office of Leo J. Toonen, assessor of incomes for Waupaca and Outagamie counties, at the courthouse today. These were the first returns filed out Tuesday to citizens of the two counties.

The blanks must be filed on or before March 15. The blanks are subject to a penalty of $1 under the state law. Every single person with an income of $500 or more and married persons with an income of $1,500 or more must file a return. Failure to receive a blank through the mail does not excuse an individual from filing a report if his income is within the limit set. If a citizen has filled to receive a blank he should either write or call at Mr. Toonen's office for one.

Within a few days Mr. Toonen expects the blanks will begin coming back at the rate of several hundred each day. Citizens may call at Mr. Toonen's office each day from 10 to 12 and from 2 to 4 o'clock to secure help in filling out their returns.

START REGULAR AUDIT OF COUNTY RECORDS

A report of the findings will be presented to the county board when it meets on Feb. 16.

Common Council Selects Own List Of Election Board Officials

REJECTS NAMES SUBMITTED BY 2 COMMITTEES

Personnel Is Virtually Same as One in Force in Past Two Years

Waiving the suggested lists of the two Republican committees, the common council at its meeting Wednesday night appointed a list of election board officials which is virtually the same as the one in force during the past two years.

According to law, committees representing the two major political parties have the prerogative of certifying to the mayor lists of election board officials. With Outagamie county boasting two Republican committees, both claiming the right, two lists were presented. Asked to decide which one was to be accepted, A. C. Boss, city attorney, ruled that the council need not choose either one, holding that one committee is not regularly constituted, and that the other did not prepare its list according to form. The Democratic party did not certify a list, because it felt that the council was in a better position to appoint an efficient board, and that a wholesale change in the personnel right now would impair service.

While the mayor is required by law to offer to the council the lists presented to him by the committees, the council is in no way bound to approve these names.

The following is the list confirmed by the council:

Here Is Board

First ward, first precinct: J. P. Gerhauser, George Bohon, Joseph Kox, D. C. Taylor, I. S. Brunsechweiler, Clara McGowan, Theodore Brunko; second precinct, Henry Tillman, Theodore Belling, R. J. Manser, J. D. Bushey, W. C. Denstedt, George Ewen and H. J. Lelmer.

Second ward, first precinct: Charles Simpson, O. N. Johnson, Irving Mass, Oscar Nitschke, Mrs. Luck Huetter, J. Alva Carter, and Lydia Koffend; second precinct, Carl Smith, Theodore Thomas, John Holtenback, Arthur Wetzel, John Melzer, David Muench, and Charles Kuehner.

Third ward, first precinct: C. A. Hipp, Clara Vaughn, Clara Yelg, P. A. Dohr, Verne Ritzer, Peter Bart...

Fourth ward, first precinct: Fred Krause, A. Hoppe, William Friese, Thomas Malone, Edward Youngs, Peter Wolff, and Ray Diener; second precinct, Leo F. Schwahn, Charles Schimpf, Sr., Jan Jansen, Peter Jacobs, Edward Knulff, R. H. Kitch and Fred Masche.

Fifth ward, first precinct: M. J. Bluck, G. E. Tesch, B. J. Plessor, John H. Wood, Charles Kruckeberg, K. H. Warren, George Grelsch; second precinct, Herbert Boettcher, W. C. Trettien, Fred Schefe, Henry Kruse, Merle D. Bro, R. Artman, B. Kwelland.

Sixth ward, first precinct: A. G. Van Wyke, C. A. Heckert, Robert Chapman, Raymond Jennerhahn, William Kranssch, Louis Kaufman, and J. E. Breilrick; second precinct, Schmedel, Reinhold Krabbe, A. G. Ingraham, O. G. Hegner, H. J. Hall, Thomas Day, Fred Beyer.

Named To Commission

Charles Bohl, Oneida-st., was appointed to the planning commission. The addition of a new member of the commission became necessary when C. C. Boyd, already a member of the commission, was named chairman of the park board, which automatically places him on the planning commission. Thus he controlled two votes on the commission. Mr. Bohl was named to eliminate this condition.

The Chicago and Northwestern railway was given permission to remove the flagman at N. Division-st. and Outagamie-st. crossings on Sundays. Aldermen Hassman, Kiltner, Richard and Wassenberg opposed the motion. Alderman Hassman maintained that this protection is necessary, particularly because there are no automatic signals north of N. Division-st. and a flagman is needed on Sundays. A resolution of the railroad explained that the change will not affect the district where there is no automatic signal, and that the crossing will be controlled from the Appleton-st. station on Sundays.

Arguing that if a Sunday flagman was necessary during the period of prosperity, he is still essential. Alderman Wassenberg strenuously objected to the decrease in protection. He felt that this period of unemployment is no time to take two men off a job. He also complained of the removal of the flagman of S. Oneida-st. after 5 o'clock during the day, without permission of the council, and the failure to properly protect the Jackman-st. hill crossing.

The chairman of the street and bridge committee, C. D. Thompson, pointed out that it makes no difference in the protection at these two crossings, as the flagmen are stationed there only for convenience while trains are switching. As there is no switching on Sundays, the automatic signals provide adequate protection, he said. He added that no man will lose his job, but will merely have his hours shortened.

Deny Tax Exemption

A decision from the city attorney indicated that the Salvation Army hall should not be exempt from taxation, so the council denied the request of the school board that the hall be exempt. The board, which pays rent and the taxes on the building, felt that the building should be taken off the tax roll.

The council voted to purchase the S. Powell property near Park-st. for $450, providing a clear title can be secured. The land will be used for street purposes.

The city was given permission by Chicago and Northwestern to dig under the tracks on the Locust-st. for sewer installation purposes. The kind of the Northern Boiler Works for steel work on the Oneida bridge was accepted, and the purchase of some calcium chloride for street purposes was approved. Mayor John Goodland, Jr., announced that the city attorney is preparing an ordinance which will make it necessary for solicitors in the city to register and pay a fee. The town is infested with solicitors of every type, the mayor pointed out.

An offer from C. E. Curtis, route 2, Appleton, to supply the city with crushed stone, providing the city provides its one stone crusher, was referred to the street and bridge committee. Requests for street lights on Bouten-st. and W. Summer-st. were turned over to the street lighting committee, and a request for street signs at the intersection of York-st. and Seymour-st. with Bouten-st. to the street and bridge committee.

2 WOMEN BARGAIN WITH ROBBER, PAY $100, KEEP JEWELS

Chicago—(P)—It may be the woman who pays, but sometimes the amount is trifling, when there's a bargain in sight.

Take for example, the case of Mrs. Mildred E. Olson, buyer for a loop store, and her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Lehart.

They were in Mrs. Olson's ninth floor apartment last night when a sleek appearing robber entered and asked for their jewels, valued at $5,000. They pleaded that the gems be spared for sentimental reasons.

"I'll take $500 in cash instead," he said.

"Too high," said Mrs. Olson.

The robber came down to $400 and then when the women still held off and finally, after considerable talking agreed to take $100 and let the matter drop.

Mrs. Lehart wrote a check for that amount, had a bellboy cash it, and turned the money over to the intruder, who forced the two women to leave the hotel with him to prevent him from being suspected.

Total savings, $4,500.

MOCK BATTLES ARE STILL IN FUTURE

Blue Fleet Unopposed by Black Forces as It Speeds Toward Hawaii

BY CAPTAIN C. M. AUSTIN

Assistant Chief of Staff, U. S. Army at Fort Belvoir, St. Louis, Mo. Some where at Sea—(P)—There is little of war, even of make believe war, to be seen from the bridge of Admiral Richard Leigh's flagship, the battleship California, on this the fourth day of the 1932 maneuvers. The passage of the Blue fleet is still uneventful, as it carries the expeditionary force of marines and soldiers to retake the Hawaiian Islands, where Black, the enemy, is entrenched.

In this period of calm we are all giving further study to the relative forces engaged in this year's grand joint army and navy exercise.

The problem makers have given Black the army troops of all arms normally stationed in the islands, augmented by the local reserves. To them is added the submarines, mine layers and mine sweepers of the navy, based on Pearl harbor. Fixed and mobile artillery of all calibers and more than 100 planes are included. With these forces, numbering between 15,000 and 20,000 men, the Black commander, Major General Brian H. Wells is called on to maintain his control of the islands. Rear Admiral George I. Pettengill commands the naval units of the Black forces.

Given so inferior a naval force, Black has no means of checking our advance on the islands.

Therein lies the first essential, an important one, to ultimate victory in a war on or over the ocean, namely, control of the sea.

Given an open sea for us and a closed one for Black, sooner or later we win. If more troops, planes, ships and supplies are wanted, we can call for them and they can come. Black cannot look to his homeland for succor as long as this condition prevails.

ASKS STUDENTS' AID IN LEGION CAMPAIGN

George Dame urged cooperation of high school students in the present American Legion drive against unemployment at an assembly meeting Wednesday afternoon in the auditorium of Appleton high school.

Explaining the Legion program, Mr. Dame told students that they may do their share by urging their families to create jobs and to encourage all unemployed persons whom they know to register. He sketched the national background of the unemployment problem as well as the local angle. Mr. Dame talked to Wilson junior high school students on the same subject this afternoon.

The kind of the Northern Boiler Works for steel work on the Oneida bridge was accepted, and the purchase of some calcium chloride for street purposes was approved. Mayor John Goodland, Jr., announced that the city attorney is preparing an ordinance which will make it necessary for solicitors in the city to register and pay a fee. The town is infested with solicitors of every type, the mayor pointed out.

An offer from C. E. Curtis, route 2, Appleton, to supply the city with crushed stone, providing the city provides its one stone crusher, was referred to the street and bridge committee. Requests for street lights on Bouten-st. and W. VARIOUS VIEWS PRESENTED ON CLASH IN EAST

Observers Differ on Justification of Invasion by Japanese

By the Associated Press

Some observers of the far East panorama contend that Emperor Hirohito's blue-garbed Japanese sailors are transgressing the soil of a sovereign nation at Shanghai by occupying the greatest seaport in the Orient in violation of the tenets of international law.

Others say the Japanese forces of occupation are only shielding the lives and investments of Japanese citizens in a land without stable government and are thereby acting in accordance with the principles of long-recognized treaties.

The facts are that Japan has more than 30,000 nationals living and doing business, and paying taxes in greater Shanghai and has more than a billion dollars invested in all China—more people and more money than any other foreign nation.

These Japanese have often been the victims of lawless Chinese. A few have been killed, property has sometimes been destroyed, commercial dealings have been solely hampered by the boycott, and life in general often has been made unpleasant for them because of Chinese agitation.

As long as this condition exists and long as the Chinese government does not rectify it, Japan insists, she must move by force of arms to preserve her national honor, which is the reason she has given for landing blue-jackets in the Chinese sections of Shanghai.

Precedents Cited

In this she goes back to precedent. The great powers rushed troops to Peking during the Boxer rebellion in 1900. They did the same thing at the time of the Nanking incident in 1927. Moreover, she has pointed out that even in the western hemisphere United States marines have long occupied Haiti and Nicaragua for much the same reason.

Even in concluding on the foreign-controlled international settlement Japan has a case in the opinion of some authorities. This alien colony on China's eastern seaboard is governed under a treaty to which Japan is a signatory and is protected by a defense corps of which her forces are a part.

If the municipal council, deriving its authority from this treaty, is not able to curb irresponsible Chinese in their activities against Japanese living in the settlement—and in this instance Japan holds it is not—then Japan claims to be within her rights in supplying reinforcements.

To all this, of course, China bases her defense on extra-territoriality. The treaties embracing these extra-territorial privileges were signed by old Manchurians or wrung from the Chinese republic at the point of the sword, say the Chinese, and they have no validity in a generation marked by higher ideals.

Face Two Fires

Consular and municipal authorities at Shanghai are between two fires. On the one hand they protest that additional Japanese forces, however legal their presence may be, are not needed to maintain order and must not commit wanton acts within the settlement. On the other hand they realize that a situation of lawless crime has arisen in the past—where further protection would be imperative and Japanese reinforcements would save the day.

However the pros and cons, the Japanese naval commanders now are reported to be at a delicate impasse. The most reliable sources indicate they intended only to administer a sound lesson to China, but they have encountered unexpected resistance and are in danger of losing a major engagement to the Chinese for the first time in history.

If they drive forward on their course they will risk the wrath of the western nations. If they retreat they will face the anger of their own people and the jeers of the Chinese. If the adopt a middle road they will lose "face" in their own estimation—than which there is nothing worse to the mind of the Oriental.

TRY MAN CHARGED WITH DISORDERLY CONDUCT

Trial of Aaron Riehl, town of Center on a charge of disorderly conduct, started in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg this morning. Riehl was arrested Dec. 27 on a charge of creating a disturbance at a dance at a hall in Twelve Corners. The arrest was made by Frank Wagner, dance hall inspector. A large crowd of spectators was present to listen to the testimony.

GRANT DIVORCE TO APPLETON WOMAN

A divorce was granted by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court yesterday afternoon to Mrs. Grace D. Noel, Appleton, from her husband, Robert Noel, Appleton, on a charge of non-support. The suit was not contested and no alimony was asked. The couple was wed at Waukegan, Ill., on June 25, 1928, and separated July 1, 1931.

amining her, but the court would not change its decision.

Then Connor asked for a side bar conference to submit to the court certain information which, the defense said, it did not have yesterday. What Connor had referred to, Connor did not disclose publicly.

After the conference, Connor referred to Albert Gallin H. Lucas, friend of Donaldson and only witness to the shooting. He testified to the killing yesterday.

"This man Lucas," said Connor to the court, "is just as anxious to free himself from blame in the case as Allen is to exculpate himself."

What Connor had referred to in connection with Lucas, was not immediately apparent to the spectators for much the same reason.

The jury was not brought into the court room until 50 minutes after court opened. Howard Hampton, one of the jurors, had an attack of indigestion during the night and required medical attention. He said he was able to continue, but shortly afterward he had another attack. Judge Knights suggested a doctor be called, but Hampton, bending over with pain, said "I guess I'll get on all right."

Quizzed On Counsel

The first question asked Miss Allen was whether she had retained Schroeder as private counsel, and she replied she had.

She was then asked whether she had told Leighton Stradley, a young man, that Donaldson had insulted her mother and other members of the Allen family in 1930. Rose replied she had not put it that way. That she said Donaldson had patted her mother on the back and she took offense at it.

The witness was handed a written statement made to the police the day after the shooting and after examining it said she could not find in it any reference to her being engaged to Donaldson. On the stand yesterday she said she was engaged to him.

Lucas followed Miss Allen on the stand to finish his cross examination begun yesterday. He was asked only a few questions regarding alleged discrepancies between his testimony yesterday and statements he made to the police.

Helga Lundgren, a maid in the Allen household at the time of the shooting, and who had been reported to be a "mystery witness" who also saw the shooting, then was called. She testified she was in the apartment but did not see the killing. She testified she heard Edward tell Donaldson and Lucas to get out.

BRITAIN, U. S. PROTEST ANEW ON JAP ACTION

Tokio Announces its Reply to Overtures of Powers for Peace

Washington—(P)—A new protest against the use by the Japanese of the international settlement as a base for their attacks upon the Chinese went to Japan today from the British and American governments.

It closely followed the announcement in Tokio of a Japanese reply to the latest Anglo-American overtures for peace. The new representations follow the line of others which have contended that the Japanese were using the American marines in the International settlement at Shanghai as a shield. They have pointed out that the American marines were under orders to fire only in most extreme emergencies.

The present fear of officials is that fighting across the line between the settlement and the native city might result in a serious battle in which innocent neutrals might be killed.

The Japanese reply to the peace proposals was awaited at the state department as the new protest went forward. It rejects two of the American-British proposals and conditionally accepts three.

JAPANESE REPLY

Tokio—(P)—The reply of the Japanese government to the powers' proposals for peace in Shanghai, adopted tonight by the ambassadors of the United States, Great Britain and Italy, agreed to cease hostile acts there if Japan is assured the Chinese will "immediately and completely cease their disturbing activities."

The reply, which was presented by Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa after it had been approved by the cabinet and Emperor Hirohito, added, however, that if the Chinese regular or irregular forces persisted in their activities Japan would be compelled to reserve full freedom of action.

A few minutes before the note was made public it was learned that the government decided definitely to send a full division of army troops to Shanghai to take the place of the blue-jackets who have been bearing the brunt of the fighting since last Friday.

In view of the undesirable menace of the Chinese in the past and the gravity of the present situation," the reply added, "the government finds it impossible to renounce mobilization or reparations for hostilities entirely. The government has no objection to entering into negotiations concerning the separation of Chinese and Japanese forces and the establishment of a neutral zone in the Shanghai district if necessary."

Presented to Powers

The note was handed to Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes of the United States, Ambassador Sir Francis Lindley of Great Britain and Ambassador Giovanni Maloni of Italy.

The ambassadors were called to the foreign office at 6 o'clock p. m. and the reply was handed to them a short time later.

The following is the text of the English translation of the note supplied by the foreign office.

"First, the Japanese forces at Shanghai will cease hostile acts if it is assured that the Chinese forces will immediately and completely cease their menacing and disturbing activities. If, on the contrary, the Chinese, including both the regular and non-uniformed forces, persist in such activities the Japanese government must preserve its freedom of action for its military forces."

"Second, in view of the unreliability of the Chinese in the past and the gravity of the present situation the Japanese government finds it impossible to renounce mobilization or preparations for hostilities."

"Third, the Japanese government has no objection to its consul general and commander at Shanghai entering into negotiations for an agreement concerning separation of the respective forces and, if necessary, the establishment of a neutral zone in the district of Shanghai."

"Fourth, while it is to be presumed that the phrase 'all pending questions between Japan and China' includes the Manchurian question, the Japanese government regards this latter as entirely separate from the Shanghai affair and, moreover, as having no connection with the league of nations council on Dec. 10, 1931."

"Furthermore, it is a settled policy of the Japanese government not to accept assistance of neutral observers or participants in the settlement of questions concerning Manchuria. For these reasons the condition embodied in Paragraph 5 of the powers' note is not acceptable to the Japanese government."

territory from Kaukauna to Appleton Junction, had just finished writing some reports at the Junction depot. He walked out to his car, and was found by a conductor shortly after.

Mr. Babler had been yardmaster for the past 12 years, and before that had worked for the Soo railroad. He was born in Oshkosh. Survivors are two daughters, Miss Viola and Mrs. Ruth Huber, Independence, Mo., and three sisters, Mrs. Duncan McCallum, Marquette; Mrs. Lavina Hite, Bloomington; and Mrs. Lillian Porter Minneapolis. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 Sunday afternoon at the Babler home, 1007 T. Fourth-st., Kaukauna.

331 REGISTER WITH LEGION JOB OFFICE

More Women and Heads of Families Should Sign Up, Officials Hold

A total of 331 Appleton unemployed men and women had registered at the American legion's employment office by noon today. General conditions surrounding registration have remained unchanged so far, it is said, and the legion again is making a plea for more women and the heads of large families to register.

Yesterday's total registration of women was 22, the largest of any day so far. Thursday morning four more registrations were made.

Registration continues steadily, according to F. A. W. Hammond, in charge of the bureau, but the greater number of registrants are young men and boys who have no dependents. The older men, many of whom are known to have families, still are staying away from the registration office.

Registrants need only give their names and address and occupation, and answer a few general questions which might be put to them by Mr. Hammond.

While the plea to register is being made to the unemployed, the legion's campaign to interest householders in the man-a-block plan of employment goes on through the schools, the luncheon clubs, over radio and in the newspapers.

Asks Clubs' Aid

For the past few days Mayor John Goodland has been addressing the luncheon clubs on features of the legion's plan, asking support of business leaders in the block survey of jobs. Talks have been given daily over the radio station and householders have been asked to look around for work they can have unemployed men do for a period beginning the middle of the month and continuing at least until June 1.

Appleton trades and labor organizations last night sent representatives to a meeting at the city hall where the legion's nine-point plan for relieving unemployment and especially its man-a-block scheme were endorsed and cooperation offered.

Concerning the nine-point plan with its plea for renewed building activity and repair and public work programs, the unions pointed out that they have reduced wages from 10 to 16 per cent, proving that they have taken the first big step in interesting people to build and repair.

Fred Bachman, president of Appleton Trades and Labor Council, recalled that the American Federation of Labor, through a statement from William Green, national president, has approved of the legion's country-wide program, and that Appleton labor should do everything it

"Y" ORGANIZES CLUB FOR UNEMPLOYED BOYS

Ryan, physical director of the association. The boys will meet Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons and discuss subjects of general importance.

At Friday afternoon's meeting the discussion will hinge about the Japanese-Chinese situation. Mr. Ryan, for many years a resident of Japan, will lead the discussion. Nineteen boys attended the meeting Monday afternoon.

PAPERS ARE FILED

Nomination papers for C. J. Wassenberg, present Fourth ward alderman, have been filed with Carl Becker, city clerk. The deadline for the filing of nomination papers is midnight, Feb. 24.

can to bring the campaign to a successful close.

Another meeting of Oney Johnston post veterans to arrange details of the job survey drive which begins at 6:30 next Monday evening, will be held at 7 o'clock tonight at the Hauen Hardware company. The various ward captains will attend, review membership of teams and plans they have made for the survey.

Offer Additional Men

In answer to the plea for additional workers in the job survey drive, Chief George P. McGillan of the fire department and Chief George T. Prim of the police department have arranged to relieve men in their departments who wish to take part in the work. Men on duty will be relieved for the period from 6:30 to 9:30 Monday night.

Help of townspeople not members of the legion still is being sought by the veterans in the job survey which they point out, is the most important phase of the man-a-block scheme. It is easy enough to have men and women register, the big thing now being not to fall down in getting them jobs.

Appleton business and professional leaders would help the legion tremendously, it is said, if they will take it upon themselves to canvass their own blocks and secure pledges for work. Many have good ideas of jobs an unemployed man can do, it was said, and they all are better acquainted with neighbors than legionnaires who might make the survey.

A complete list of workers making the job survey Monday evening will be available after tonight's meeting of ward captains.

The workers will gather at 6:30 Monday night and as whistles blow, bells ring and sirens shriek, they will move off in groups of two to visit every home in the city. Householders have been asked to remain home Monday until they have been visited by the canvassers.

The workers all will gather Sunday afternoon at the Elk club to receive final instructions.

"JUDICIAL COERCION" IN HAWAII

In Hawaii, which uses the federal court system, a grand jury must report a true bill in order to bring an alleged felon to trial, although the result is nothing more than the information or charge filed by our district attorney in state courts.

Yet there has been much difficulty in getting a true bill from the jury at Honolulu against those who kidnaped and slew Kahahawai.

As a matter of fact this grand jury reported to Judge Cristy on January 22 by a vote of 12 to 9, "no true bill," but the judge declined to accept the report, and, although the jurors protested, adjourned the grand jury until January 26. In the interim one of the members of the grand jury was appointed a police commissioner and when the grand jury reconvened on the 26th, the judge released this member who had voted for "no true bill" from further jury duty, although the member protested this release and desired to continue.

Even after the release of this member the grand jury again on January 26 by a vote of 11 to 9 voted "no true bill."

Judge Cristy again refused to accept the report. He renewed his discussion with the jurors as to their duties and as to the effect of a failure to face them resolutely. He told them, in effect, that a failure to indict would result "in anarchy" and asked them, "Are you willing to take the responsibility of that situation?" They thereafter voted an indictment.

This judgment is now being assailed as a "despot," as guilty of "judicial coercion," of invading the "sacred rights of a grand jury."

In the calm of fair consideration, unconnected with the regrettable affair in Honolulu, people must instinctively know this judge is entirely in the right, that he is performing an unpleasant public duty; that when any man, be he black, white or yellow, can be kidnaped from a public place and shortly thereafter be found dead of violence in the company of those who bear him, whatever be the reason or justification, extreme hatred and contempt, it is certainly anarchy upon the part of those who took the law into their own hands. If the authorities, and the grand jury is the accusing authority, fail to bring those people to trial and put the ultimate responsibility of their release or punishment with the petit jury chosen in open court with all sides represented and after a full detail of such evidence as it may be possible to gather, there is further anarchy.

It would set a wicked precedent to permit them to go without even the formality of a trial.

If the trial jury does not want to convict, no earthly power can make it. If it wants to assume, or may be properly justified in assuming, that the killing of Kahahawai was accidental, it may find the parties guilty of a degree of manslaughter. If it wants to recommend mercy it may do so and the court would doubtless exercise it. If there are other extenuating circumstances why this mother particularly, wrought to madness by the infamous abuse of her child, should be let go free, there is authority with the executive in that particular.

But that everyone should prejudice the case without a hearing and applaud an act of anarchy, and, by refusing to set the machinery of the law in motion condone further anarchy, would be most regrettable.

FRAUD

The Securities Division of the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin has just caused the arrest of a stock salesman said to have floated more than a million dollars worth of worthless, or nearly worthless, stocks in this state, after an application for a permit to sell had been investigated, found wanting, and denied.

Again it is the unhappy story of relatively small investors who have parted with their savings, sometimes their life accumulations, for an empty promise, a rainbow painted on the ceiling, a tag.

This is one of the situations that no number of laws relative to tax burdens, the equal opportunities of the people, or the fairer distribution of wealth, can remedy. Nothing in the way of improvement can be lasting without a strong mixture of that ingredient called the "caution of every person himself."

Men and women who take these rosy promises by the mere say-so of word picture painters, court the blow that invariably follows.

KEEPING ON THE TRACK

"We can, if we wish, quite simply and easily prevent over-saving, over-investment, over-expansion of productive capacity without waiting for purchasing power to be confiscated by competition. Inflation and deflation in the circle of boom and depression, by taxing away with suitable income surtax rates and inheritance taxes all excess corporate savings and surplus individual income that cannot be spent by the recipient on consumers' goods or replacement of obsolete equipment."

"This surplus could then be spent through governmental channels for the production of free social income by building public works, parks, museums, recreation centers, roads, all of which do not offer commodities or services for competitive sale, and in the building of which purchasing power for other goods is directly released in wages."

"Stabilization on a national scale is perfectly possible, but it requires centralized control over exports and imports and foreign investments."

This is the statement of Dr. Virgil Jordan, his suggestion of arriving at that heretofore elusive goal called a fairer distribution of wealth.

It sounds exactly like the plan that has just collapsed in Australia and New Zealand.

We have seen plenty of plans that take away from those who have but most of them are grandiose of expenditure, deadening of individual thrift and initiative and merely pour the money into a sieve.

A workable plan must start by sealing up the sieve and deal in terms of practical life and with humankind for what it is.

Suppose that the savings and investments made by our people in the last ten years had all been worthy, would anyone have any difficulty visualizing the comfortable and prosperous situation that would surround us?

Writers often declare that France presents a better distribution of wealth than we do. They predicate this upon the fact that every Frenchman is taught first of all to invest in the bonds issued by his country, in other words he goes in for soundness instead of speculation. Then there is more of individual business than consolidated business. There are fewer of the large aggregations of capital. Each one is therefore more owner of himself and his business. And each investment is sounder.

No plan has a ghost of show of achieving the desired result that does not start with the open knowledge that no one can have anything unless he saves or creates, and then buttresses what is saved or created by security and stability.

That compels education and supervision of the small investor to prevent him from getting most shamefully defrauded as he has in the past.

A TRAGIC CONDITION

Automobile accidents in this country in 1931 caused the deaths of 34,400 persons and non-fatal injuries nearly a million more. This toll equals the combined populations of Nevada, Delaware, Wyoming and the City of Washington.

The population of each of fifteen states was less than the number of persons killed and injured and only the five largest American cities had populations in 1930 greater.

The economic loss due to these accidents is estimated at 2½ billions. This is more than the annual cost of public school education in the United States; five times the country's average yearly fire loss; and more than half the amount required to maintain the Federal government each year.

These comparisons drive home a realization of the tragedy before us. This condition becomes a matter of even greater concern with the knowledge that three-fourths of these accidents were due to the failure of operators to assume and exercise a proper sense of personal responsibility.

Every mile and every minute of driving an automobile requires some little decision that often means the difference between life and death, well-being and serious injury.

These are trifling decisions but fraught with tremendous consequences. For every driver or pedestrian there is a safe road if he will but see it. If minor decisions of such major importance were made as they should be made, automobile accidents would be reduced to a minimum.

TO THE next gent who asks us "Why don'tcha change bootleggers? Your nose is awful red," a warning . . . a fellow is dangerous when he's full of hops, when he's starving or when he's gotta cold . . . we've got the last named . . . once we kidded a fellow who had a roseate snifter . . . 'good thing we could run faster than he could . . .

The national public debt jumped $1,652,592,880 last year. Will somebody please try to figure a wise crack for THAT?

And that reminds me—an old-fashioned girl is one who thinks that eight people can't ride in a coupe.

They are the same people who kick about how crowded the speakeasy was, too.

Far be it from us to try to understand diplomatic tactics between nations, particularly the methods used by Japan. E'instance what the Japanese representatives to the League said to the assemblage after the assemblage had told him to lay off China—that "the important declarations" of the great powers were practically the same as what Japan was favoring.

No matter what happens, however, the Japanese will have to admit that they couldn't hit the pitching of Lefty Grove and some of the other American ball players who made a tour of Japan a little while ago.

It was bad enough, during the last war, to figure out some of the names, but how about this one? There's Woosung, Wangpoo, Shig-emitsu, Taniguchi, Fushimi, Yoshizawa, and more like those.

And what ever happened to our old pal General Ma? Gosh, we were depending upon him to help pull us through this war, as far as the nomenclature went. (Swell word, ain't it. Nope, we don't know what it means, either.)

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

THE MAN WHO ONCE WALKED A MILE

A mother sends in a two-line clipping which says: "The day will come when people will point at this man who once walked a mile." Then she comments on it.

But really it does not seem funny to me. It seems rather tragic that people of this generation get frightened when you suggest a walk. They have to drive the car to the corner grocery two blocks away.

I should rather spend an hour walking than drive for an hour, any time.

Why does not some philanthropist interested in the improvement of health or race betterment for this generation and the generations to follow offer a prize for walking feats or achievements instead of giving prizes for swimming the channel or something equally spectacular?

I am a woman nearly forty-five and believe that I could walk from here to California in two months (provided the route covered not more than 2,000 miles).

My husband and neighbors regard my walks as a joke, but my husband is much overweight and constantly complains of ill health and "stomach trouble." My children, who like to walk with me, and I are very fit physical specimens and not afraid of oxygen on the hoof.

There is a great deal of philosophy and good hygiene in this sensible mother's ideas. People are afraid to walk, afraid for one reason or another. Afraid the neighbors may think they can't afford to ride. Afraid they make-up may come off. Afraid they may get up a sweat, which just isn't done in the more exclusive circles depicted in the clatrap magazines. Afraid they'll get sore feet. Afraid the weather may prove inclement. Afraid they may get wet. Afraid they may be regarded as queer.

Ideal conditions for walking in southern California. Less walking done there than anywhere else in the world, I estimate. Why, when Tony the Irish Terror and I go out for our evening stroll it is rather startling to see anybody else afoot, after the sun sets and all the folks in Beverly Hills draw their shades and turn in—or out—for the night. The boulevards are brightly lighted everywhere. Even the beautiful little parks are illuminated at night. I can't learn why.

Sombody did offer a prize two or three years ago, for a cross-continent hike—or was it for running? But the professional "sport" writers made a joke of it. Not since Vespa's day has any pedestrian achieved wide distinction or even momentary popular interest for his walking.

It seems to be our national characteristic to prefer to sit in the grandstand or on the bleachers and take our physical exploits vicariously, striving vainly to satisfy the repressed urge by yelling and screaming hysterically over the contests of the hired players. The hysteria of spectators at a football or baseball game is really a sad exhibition of racial weakness or degeneracy.

Walking is the finest all-round exercise any man or woman can take. Alas, these days only the more fortunate can afford it as a regular daily habit. To keep physically fit, one must devote from one to two hours to it every day. Whatever the value of one's time, I sincerely believe this investment is the wisest the modern man or woman can make.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York—Charlie Bochert has been in show business so long and knows the irritants of the game so well that he is not given to tears and delirium. But I happened to see Mr. Bochert burn, literally, in a befuddled moment the other day.

I introduced him to a young lady who was seeking some intelligence of his boss, Earl Carroll.

M. Bochert, whom we had tackled as he made a wild dash from the backstage elevator, did his best to do the gentlemanly thing with other matters on his mind.

He doffed his derby, holding it upside down in his right hand. Then he needs must remove his half-smoked, quarter-chewed stogie with his left, to speak his greeting.

Heaping his confusion, the young lady proffered her hand—always an awkward situation for a gentleman who carries hat and smoke.

In some way, when M. Bochert shifted his encumbrances, a long ash fell unnoticed from the cigar into his crown. With the introductory ceremony concluded, Charlie put on his hat and—

"Ye gods!" he yelled, jerking on the derby.

The ash carried burning particles of Havana leaf, which were spread atop M. Bochert's ample bald spot. The usually pink and shiny surface of M. Bochert's pate was red and glowing like a Montezuma sunset.

"The thing that really burns me, though," he explained, "is the wholesale removal of pictures of these chorus girls from my office."

"There are more than 400 employees in this theater, and every one of them seems to want pictures of the beauties to decorate his home."

"I go out of my office for a minute without locking the door, a stack of photographs is apt to disappear."

"I'm not accusing anybody, but if I can find that guy I think got those Marcella Edwards pictures, I'm gonna break his neck."

Wayman Adams has been in Northampton, Mass., painting a portrait of Calvin Coolidge.

The "Open House of Friendship" (invitations are worded that way), held by Pompeo Coppini, the sculptor, at his big studio on the first Sunday of each month, has become a New York institution.

Each recipient of an invitation is requested to bring new friends who are interested in art subjects.

A contract to supply electrical power to one building center here is based on an estimated annual use of 32,000,000 kilowatt hours.

This is in excess of the demands of some towns of 30,000 population. There'll be that many people in the center, though—if they rent the offices.

ROOSEVELT AND BAKER LIMIT PARTY ISSUES

Statements Eliminate Internationalism Between Probable Candidates

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1932 by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—With Franklin D. Roosevelt and Newton D. Baker claiming that they do not favor entry of the United States into the league of nations at this time, the differences between these two potential candidates for the Democratic nomination have been eliminated on that point but have narrowed now to what each thinks on domestic questions.

The politicians have breathed a sigh of relief that internationalism is not to be an issue and it leaves the northern Democrats particularly happy, for it focuses attention on prohibition and economic problems.

The next move is to obtain Mr. Roosevelt's views on prohibition. This the Democrats in the Democratic party will insist is their main point of cleavage with the New York governor, unless, of course, he develops his attitude beyond that of a couple years ago.

Mr. Baker is for outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment and he favors a substitute amendment giving congress the power to control the liquor traffic by appropriate legislation, which means that a majority of congress could decide the question every two years, or more frequently if it desired.

Roosevelt View

Mr. Roosevelt favors a substitute for the eighteenth amendment a provision in the constitution placing upon state governments the obligation to distribute liquor. It is not understood here, however, that this would mean the states could enact such laws as they pleased regulating alcoholic content, but that the state government would be compelled to act as distributor and that no other agency could have the buying or selling privilege. This form of state distribution is opposed in some quarters as interfering with the freedom of action of the state to do as they wished about liquor legislation.

The extreme wets, of course, want the eighteenth amendment repealed and the states to recover all powers to deal with the question, just as they did before the eighteenth amendment became part of the constitution.

Mr. Baker was a member of the Wickersham commission and in a brief statement signed the report but favored the immediate repeal of the eighteenth amendment and concurred in the suggested phraseology of the substitute amendment.

Mr. Baker's views on the tariff were expressed in his Williamstown speech last summer and they do not differ essentially from those just voiced by Governor Roosevelt. If the Democratic delegates are to choose between the New York governor and the former secretary of war, they must look to prohibition and whatever formula each may propose as a means of getting the country out of its economic difficulties.

The debate on these points probably will be resumed when Mr. Baker gets back from his vacation in Mexico.

The latest Roosevelt speech clears the air on the league issue and the tariff and gives prohibition and economic woes a chance to come to the fore as the issues on which to base a true measure of the two outstanding candidates for the Democratic nomination for the presidency.

C. G. Bailey, boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was named vice president of the state boys' work secretaries' association at their annual meeting at Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. Monday and Tuesday. Harvey Boorman, Kenosha, was elected president, and Harry Hansen, Waukegan, formerly of Appleton and a graduate of Lawrence college, was named secretary and treasurer.

Roy Sorenson, Chicago, regional boys' work secretary of the national council, was leader at the two day conference which featured discussions by psychologists of methods of supervising and organizing boys' groups.

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

Unity at Shanghai; the Conference at Geneva

In the situation which now prevails at Shanghai everything for the moment depends upon the judgment of the commanders at the scene of action. Washington, London, Paris and Rome can give general instructions. They can send ships and men. But they cannot decide from hour to hour just what is to be done. The affair is much too confused. The possibilities are too many. The threatened dangers are of a kind which it may be possible to deal with only by instant action.

It is the task of the governments to make it absolutely clear to the Japanese, to the Chinese, to the Japanese and military representatives in the Orient, to their nationals, to every soldier and sailor, that they have no intention of being drawn into intervention on either side of this Oriental war. There can be no doubt that this is the will of all the peoples of the western nations, and therefore, whatever measures are taken by the commanders at Shanghai must be limited to and must conform with this fundamental purpose.

Within these sharp boundaries it then becomes the primary duty of the commanders to assure the physical safety of the foreigners. The commanders on the spot must be the judges of what this requires. They must decide whether a neutral zone can be established which will protect the settlement or whether the population must be evacuated. They alone are in a position to deal with the Chinese and Japanese commanders. They alone can decide

USE MORE BUTTER IN U. S. INSTITUTIONS

Find Consumption Increased by Million Pounds Since Last Year

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—The consumption of pure butter in government institutions has increased by practically a million pounds since attacks of last year on use of oleomargarine and other butter substitutes in such institutions, according to Sen. John J. Blaine of Boscebel, one of the most active in the attack last year.

Current statistics, which he is collecting now in preparation for the early introduction of an anti-oleo bill, when compared with statistics available in "a census" taken last year, to provide material for the attack upon use of butter substitutes, show this amazing increase in use of pure butter, the Wisconsin Senator says. The improvement and increase has been very general in veterans' hospitals, old soldiers' homes, in the army and in most government institutions with St. Elizabeth's Hospital for the Insane in Washington as the lone and startling exception.

Sen. Blaine is planning an attack upon this institution which in past hearings has testified concerning its "fine dairy herd" yet continues to use butter substitutes for its patients.

Dr. W. F. Lorenz of Madison, the well-known psychiatrist, who is expected in Washington in the next week or so and while here will discuss the oleo bill with Sen. Blaine, has told the Senator that butter-fat is one of the most necessary of food-stuffs for persons suffering from mental ills and that it is almost criminal to withhold it from them. Yet St. Elizabeth's continues to serve oleomargarine and substitutes.

Of course, there are certain mental diseases and conditions which make the assimilation of butter fat impossible, but these are in the minority, the Wisconsin Senator says.

The final drafting of the Blaine oleo bill is being held-up pending reports and statistics from various government departments interested and involved. Its object like that of last session's attacks and arguments, will be the prevention of use of oleo in government institutions.

Since 1924 the German government has built 1,761,655 apartments and single dwellings, designed especially to house the poorer population of cities and to lift their standard of living.

what forces are needed to carry out the strictly defined duty laid upon them. They should be left in no doubt that in performing that strictly defined duty they have the confidence and support of their governments at home.

The decisions which must be made at Shanghai cannot successfully be made by divided authority. The western nations have a common interest, a common objective, and a common responsibility. They should, as "The London Times" suggests, have unity of command over all their military and naval forces. The situation is such that disaster might very easily result from a failure of all the national contingents to act instantly and together. The peril is too great to stand upon ceremony. There is the peril of indecision of executive zeal and hot-headedness by individual officers. A unified responsibility and command is needed.

It is, of course, easy under the circumstances at Shanghai to think that the Geneva conference is funny. But as Wilde once said, a cynic is usually a disappointed sentimentalist. The disappointed sentimentalist in this case are those who thought disarmament would come by solemn declarations against war and its horrors. The realists, who have known all along that there was no cure for competitive force except an organized international security, have no occasion to be cynical.

Manchuria and Shanghai are presenting a complete and overwhelming proof of the realist philosophy. They have shown and are showing the utter fallacy of the notion that the peace of the world can be preserved by solemn self-denying promises and by improvised consultations after the peace has been broken and the fires of war lighted. From the point of view of the education of western opinion the Oriental object lesson could not be more timely. It has given the nations something real to talk about at Geneva, for it must bring home to all and sundry that the reduction of armaments is not a matter of discussing ratios but of overcoming the anarchy of unlimited national states.

It should bring home, too, to all of us a renewed sense of how deeply threatened is our common civilization by the disunity of our aspirations and rivalries. There is the opportunity at Geneva to carry to all the peoples an understanding of the terrible risks they are facing because they cherish and perpetuate a series of imbecile quarrels that could be settled in a few weeks of sanity and common sense.

PLAN SERIES OF MEETINGS OF RURAL TEACHERS

First Is to Be Held Saturday at High School in Seymour

A series of three conferences for rural school teachers, the first of which will take place Saturday at the high school at Seymour, have been arranged by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools. At these conferences Mr. Meating expects to work with the teachers in developing objective tests to be used in the schools this year. Teachers are being asked to bring along what they consider good, objective tests on the goals listed under the various subjects.

Teachers from the high schools in the towns of Seymour, Ononda, Osborn, Black Creek and Cicero and grade teachers from the town of Seymour, Black Creek, Cicero, Isaar and Nichols will attend the meeting at Seymour Saturday.

On Feb. 13 there will be a meeting at the Outagamie Rural Normal school at Kaukauna for high school teachers from Kaukauna, Buchanan, Vandenbrook, Freedom, Grand Chute and Center and grade teachers from Little Chute, Kimberly and Combined Locks. On Feb. 20, at the high school at Hortonville, the high school teachers from Dale, Ellington, Hortonville, Liberty, Maine, Maple Creek and Ravina and grade teachers from Hortonville, Shiocton, Bear Creek and Dale, will meet.

Teachers from Greenville may choose between the Hortonville and Kaukauna meetings.

Hang Thermometer on North Side of House

To avoid arguments about how cold or how hot it is hang your thermometer on the north side of the house in a sheltered place, such as a porch, and be sure it is an inch or two away from the wall. The United States Weather Bureau has found that it gets the most accurate records of temperatures by exposing the Weather Bureau thermometers—of which there are about 5,000 over the country—in a covered or screened inclosure of wood slats which keep off rain, sun, snow, and radiation and also allow free air circulation.

The Methodist Church of Currituck, N. C., has bought a new motor bus with which to make the rounds of the town every Sunday to take the people to church free of charge. It is said that this system will increase church attendance.

ONLY $182 PAID BY 16 LAWBREAKERS IN COURT IN JANUARY

Amount Collected in Fines Last Month Is Lightest for Several Years

Only $182.65 was collected in fines and costs from 16 lawbreakers arraigned in municipal court during January, according to the monthly report of William R. Kreiss, municipal court reporter. It was the smallest amount collected in fines in one month in several years.

Arrests were made as follows: drunkenness, 5; assault and battery, 4; passing worthless checks, non-support, illegitimacy and disorderly conduct, two each; and larceny, assault with intent to do great bodily harm, failure to pay wages, obtaining money under false pretenses, practicing medicine without a license, vagrancy, malicious slander and operating a car without a license, one each.

APPLETON SKAT PLAYERS TO ATTEND STATE MEET

The feature of the congress will be the skat sessions in the auditorium at which prizes exceeding $5,000 will be awarded. More than 2,000 players are expected to take part in the play. Business sessions of the league will be held on Saturday.

NEW GAS MASK

Berlin—Germany pioneer developer of gas masks, has now produced a "full-view" mask, in which the wearer can see on all sides. Previous masks limited the wearer's view to a narrow area seen through goggles. The new mask is made of a transparent material, which takes the place of rubber and fabric in the old mask.

A moving picture camera developed by French scientists has demonstrated that a swallow flies three times as fast as the speediest airplane.

A cold does 3 things "Pape's" stops them all

A cold always affects you in at least three ways. Air passages are inflamed and irritated. Perspiration is checked. Bowels are clogged with acid wastes from the mucous discharge. So doctors say you must do three things to be rid of a cold.

Pape's Cold Compound does all three! It reduces inflammation and swelling of the mucous membrane; it induces perspiration; opens the bowels. Chew one of these pleasant tablets and see how quickly nasal discharge stops; head clears; breathing becomes easy. See how that achy, feverish, weak feeling disappears. And "Pape's" doesn't stop with killing cold germs. It activates bowels and removes germs and acid wastes from the system. All drug stores—35c. Just remember "Pape's".

Cadillac Runs 4 Years on One Set of GOODYEARS

More Than 36,000 Miles Without a Flat Tire

Mr. Jos. J. Froelich of the Froelich Studio in Appleton (127 East College Ave.) has driven his V-83 Cadillac car four years without a puncture or flat tire.

Mr. Froelich says: "I like the safety I get from Goodyear tires under a heavy car. Four years ago I bought a set of four Goodyear tires and tubes."

"During these four years I have never had a tire off my car, and even now after 36,000 miles I look forward to many more miles of trouble free service."

It is a well known fact that Goodyear tires furnish the greatest degree of safety for the heavy car owner as well as under the smaller cars.

Prices a Thrifty Man can understand

GOODYEAR is the greatest name in the rubber industry and GIBSON tire stores the largest in this Fox River Valley. Millions and millions more people ride on Goodyear tires than any other kind. That's why, at times like these, with tire prices at rock bottom, Goodyear and Gibson can offer values none can match. "Super-safe traction and Supertwist cord in every tire we sell".

Dr. Baker In Address To A.A.U.W.

R. Louis C. Baker, professor of romance languages at Lawrence college, gave an address on Contemporary Europe at the meeting of University Women Wednesday night at the Institute of Paper Chemistry. He explained the geographical and political situation in Europe, and the jealousy between France and Italy which has led to the formation of two opposing "camps." One group, he stated, including Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, and Roumania, has accepted the suave friendship and protection of France, this completing a close ring around the central powers. France therefore dominates the political situation with five solid votes on world questions.

The other group, Hungary and Bulgaria, looks to Italy for protection, Dr. Baker said, and went on to show that the Italians are scornful of French culture and lack appreciation of French literature and art. France is still disputing Italy's right to a large fleet, the speaker continued, and the question is no near solution now than it was four years ago. Italy has been lending sympathy to Germany, and this cooperation has been most evident during the past nine months, causing France no little worry. This political situation is at most intolerable to all countries of central Europe, said Dr. Baker.

The speaker stressed the intense feeling of nationalism in each country as most detrimental, and said that Hungary suffers most from this overdeveloped spirit. She has a "superiority complex" which is both pathetic and difficult to understand. All foreign languages have been forced out of Hungarian schools, he stated, and as a result the younger generation has difficulty in carrying on commerce with neighboring countries. So much of Hungary's territory was divided among other states at the close of the World war, that Hungarian settlements or colonies are found in various countries. These Hungary calls her "unredeemed."

Dr. Baker told of how Hungary tried to send radio messages to these "unredeemed" territories, and as a result other countries immediately declared a "radio war."

The total lack of interstate commerce regulations between the countries has brought financial distress to all countries, he said. The lack of one stable financial exchange system also is distressing. The situation became so acute in regard to Hungary that in December, "The Danubian Economic Union" was considered. This would scale the tariff walls and permit goods to pass the boundaries more freely. Thus, Baker maintained, would be a most constructive measure to stimulate trade, one that will be hard to perfect, but which must come sooner or later.

13 Kinds Of Money

Dr. Baker told of the 13 kinds of money that are necessary in traveling from Paris to Constantinople.

A lack of freedom of the press in regard to foreign affairs in all countries except Germany, said the speaker, keeps people in ignorance of true international situations and fosters fear and suspicion of the neighboring sovereign states. In closing, Dr. Baker said, "Diplomacy is distrusted, confidence to risk friendship is lacking; nationalism is too selfish to permit cooperation." He predicted that Europe might even have to sink to a lower level of distress before she recognized the supreme need of cooperation between her sovereign states.

In answer to questions, Dr. Baker said, "Germany feels more cordial than France toward America. Belgium is very bitter toward America and resents all Americans who travel across her border." He said that in his opinion, because of the many new independent states, Europe is better armed now than she was in 1919.

Dr. Harry Lewis conducted a tour of the Institute and explained the various laboratories. About 75 members were present.

The next meeting will be March 2 at the home of Mrs. A. F. Kietzen, 18 Alton-st.

Don't Pass Child Care To Grandma

BY ANGELO PATRI

"Shall I leave my children with their grandmother while I go to work? I could earn enough money to give them a better education but to do this I have to be away from home for five days a week, seeing the children only at weekends. Their grandmother doesn't seem enthusiastic about it so I thought I'd ask you about it," is the gist of a letter I had some days ago.

Of course I do not know anything about it because I do not know the children, nor the grandmother. Nor do I understand the conditions. Everybody must do what he can. Few of us can choose our ways because necessity drives us relentlessly. But if it were possible not to leave the children with their grandmother for five days out of seven, I'd not do it.

Grandmother brought up a family of her own. Her body is not as strong as it used to be. Things tire her more and the weariness lasts longer. She is further from childish things than she used to be and the noise, the activity, the never ending demands of the little children exhaust her. If she can visit with the children occasionally, as she sees fit, well and good. But if possible, grandmother ought not to be made responsible for the care of a family of little children.

Little children need young parents. Older people have not the power to adjust themselves with the speed and endurance that little ones demand. They cannot play horse. They cannot be the lion in the jungle or the fairy asleep in the flower. At least not often, nor for too long a time. Story telling tires older people, and you know what little children demand in that particular. Stories and more stories and they must be told with never failing dramatic power.

Then too, the parents ought to be young enough to enjoy their adolescent children's pleasure in life. They have to be strong enough to spare a few hours sleep occasionally when parties are on and hours are late. They have to have strong nerves to bear up under the onslaught of youthful fun and vigor, all its mistakes, its wilfulness and its blindness. Grandmother is too tired. She needs the stimulus of youth but not its nagging demands.

It gives the children pleasure to visit their grandparents now and then and it pleases the old people to have them. If grandpa can take the little son out for a walk in the morning, or escort the children to school, they enjoy each other's company. If grandmother can take care of the children for one afternoon a week while their mother goes out, it does them all good. But there must be no strain.

It is unfortunate if very young children have to be left in their grandparents' care. The span of their ages is too wide. The difference in their powers is to great. The little ones need the noise and battle of childhood and the older people need the repose and quiet of age.

Let visiting grandma's be a treat.

THE STORY OF SUE

By Margery Hale

HOTELS! the taxicab driver repeated after Ruth. "I know a lot of them." He named the town's largest.

"No, not that one," she said, remembering that Sue and Jack were there. "Some more obscure one."

"How about the Moore House?" he asked.

"The Moore House? I never heard of it."

"I didn't think you had. That's why I'm suggesting it. It's all right. Cheap, too. If that matters to you."

"It does." She said it decisively. She was remembering, for the first time, that she had only five dollars in her pocketbook. She didn't have a checking account, Sally did. She liked to write checks, so Ruth's money went with hers. And Sally checked out most of it. Ruth couldn't touch the small balance now.

The hotel was down a side street. It looked clean. In a smaller town it would have been rather ornate.

"It's all right. I'll stay," Ruth said.

But she was a little uncomfortable as she registered at the desk. She thought of giving another name. Then she decided that it would be foolish. No one who knew her would think of coming anywhere. One name was as good as another. Just the same she kept looking over her shoulder as she went to the elevator.

"If the place does this sort of thing to you, you ought to get out," she told herself. But she thought again of the five-dollar bill in her pocketbook. A room here was only $1.50. She had to stay.

Just for one night, she decided, she could stand it. Tomorrow she would find a place to live. A room where she would be free. Not in an institution where there were rules. Not in anyone's home. There must be places where people rented cheerful rooms. She would take her meals anywhere she pleased.

When the door had closed on the porter and she realized that she was alone, she gave a few dance steps just in the exuberance of being free. Free! No one to criticize her now. To tell her that she was too gay—or too dumb. To take her money. To shift blame on her. Free!

The room had a dingy red carpet. The curtains were slightly frayed along the edges. The dressing table was battered. The bath towels in the bathroom weren't as thick and white as they should have been. But to Ruth it was Paradise.

She sat by the window and looked down into the dreary street. A stray cat or two blinked green eyes and wandered on. A man's voice said something. A girl's lower, quicker tone answered, and there were running steps. Steps came near and went away again.

Suddenly the ecstasy was gone. She was lonely. She wanted someone to sympathize with her. Someone to comfort her. To be excited and indignant over the way her family had treated her. To appreciate her. To love her.

She gave up to the tears that she had choked down on so many other occasions. Her eyes grew red. Her face ached. But she didn't stop. Not until she was exhausted. As she gave a last quivering sigh somebody knocked at her door.

Paris ever thoughtful for wee maidens comfort, has designed a new wrap-around dress.

It's a darling. Mother will appreciate it equally as much as little daughter. Pressing this tiny garment becomes a very simple matter, when it can be opened out flat. Don't you think it's a cute idea?

Completed by matching bloomers, makes it a delightfully practical rig for play time.

Naturally cottons come instantly to one's mind for fashion it as difference does it make to him whether he's being made a fool of so long as he doesn't know it.

It may be difficult for you to stand by and see a selfish, silly woman wrap Bob around her finger, but console yourself with the thought that you can do no possible good in interfering and that when Bob ceases to be happy in his infatuation he will then make trouble himself and arrange his own life as he sees fit.

Your best way of showing real friendship is to stand by him, come what may—not allow his wife's personality to break up a really wonderful friendship.

EEEE: Sorry that this column does not handle problems of etiquette. Any information I gave you would be inaccurate and therefore from your point of view worthless. I can safely tell you that it is quite natural and proper to congratulate a new mother on the arrival of a new baby. But the other problems you suggest are too involved and require accurate information which I cannot give you. Sorry.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

OLD FRIEND'S DUTY TO KEEP SILENT IN THIS CASE

Dear Virginia Vane: I have kept quiet as long as I can, and now I want your advice as to how to break the silence I have held for years. When my best friend married a mean, envious woman, I thought my heart would break but I said nothing. She has always treated me all right because she doesn't dare to do otherwise but I know she hates me. She has robbed my pal, Bob, of all his old friends through her mean treatment and words and actions. Now I know for a fact that she is playing him for a fool, simply using his money for her own good—not even taking the trouble to run his house right to please him. And she is trying to make trouble with his family and get rid of them as she has of all his friends. I have great influence with him and could step in and make trouble. I think she deserves it. Would like your advice as to what is best to say to him. He is crazy about her and seems to be absolutely obsessed with her, so I will have to be careful.

OLD FRIEND.

Preserve that golden silence, old friend. Nothing you can say or do will effect the separation you hope for. You may hurt Bob frightfully. You may open his eyes to the fact that his wife is in the eyes of the world a mean woman who is taking advantage of his good-nature but if he loves her, you can't make him stop loving her.

All you can do is to cause him to turn against you. And since you say that his old friends have deserted him one by one, it would behoove you as a real pal to stick to him when he needs you. If you insult his wife, or criticize her harshly he will out of his loyalty to her, find it necessary to drop you, and there will go one of his few remaining stand-bys.

You can't do any good. You've got to grin and bear this situation. Sooner or later, if things are as bad as you depict them, he'll find out the truth for himself. If this woman is the selfish beast you all think her, even Bob will come to realize it some day.

And until he does, leave him alone. If he thinks he's happy let him persist in that delusion. Too few people are thus deluded about their married lives. Be glad that he hasn't waked up to the truth. What

OIL YOUR SKIN TO KEEP IT SOFT, LOVELY

BY ALICIA HART

This is a bad winter on most complexions.

If the weather stays either hot or cold, dry or wet, you know what to do for your skin and can do it. But when you face a lot of changes, your skin is bound to require several kinds of treatment and you might just as well treat it right.

If you are an outdoor girl, be sure you feed your skin enough oily creams to keep its texture velvety. I suggest that you forego more than a daily washing, and take it nights. Mornings, use one of the good facial oils or cleansing creams that melt the minute they hit your warm skin. Do a good job of massaging it in, wipe it off thoroughly and you will have just as clean a look as if you scrubbed hard.

In addition, you should use a foundation cream. Don't make the mistake of thinking a cold cream is a real foundation cream. It is too oily and too heavy.

Your foundation cream should come after your astringent, and if you feel like blowing yourself to a real treat, there are some delicate ones that smell grand and give your skin a kind of bloom-on-the-peach look.

When you come out of the cold, oil your face again. The extra precaution accounts for many a lovely-textured skin that otherwise might not be so beautiful. If your skin has a tendency to look flaky after you have powdered, or if you notice fine lines just about to appear, wear oil on your face, when you go to bed.

Do not keep food in paper bags in a refrigerator. They act as non-conductors of the cold air.

$156,524 SPENT TO AID AGED PERSONS

Outagamie-co Was One of Eighth in State to Provide Assistance

Madison—(AP)—Eight counties, comprising 35.7 per cent of the state's population, expended $156,524.72 during 1930, in aiding 990 persons under the Wisconsin old-age assistance law, the state board of control has announced.

Counties operating during 1930 under the law, which by an act of the 1931 legislature becomes compulsory for all counties July 1, 1933, were Kenosha, La Crosse, Langlade, Milwaukee, Outagamie, Sawyer, Winnebago and Wood.

The average amount of assistance granted, the board of control said, was $19.71 per month. The maximum monthly individual allowance is $30. A six year survey shows that the average monthly aid is $19.17, and during the six years of operation, a total of $394,211.96 has been expended under the law in aiding 2827 men and women over 70 years of age.

The majority of those receiving assistance, 64.3 per cent, were American born, of which 52.9 per cent traced their birth places to Wisconsin. Foreign birthplaces were reported by 35.7 per cent.

By far the greatest number of beneficiaries were between 70 and 79 years of age—79.9 per cent. Approximately 19 per cent were between the ages of 80 and 89 and 2.2 per cent were over 90, the board stated.

Men outnumbered women in the list, accounting for 56.6 per cent of the individuals assisted. The largest number, or 51.4 per cent of the beneficiaries were widowed, with 22.9 per cent married, 11.7 per cent single,

As Spain Banishes Historic Jesuit Order

Official banishment of the Jesuits from Spain—deplored as "a real outrage" by Pope Pius XI—may bring to an end the powerful influence which the order has exerted on Spanish affairs for many centuries. Property of the order like the famous Sanctuary at St. Ignacio, shown below, is to be confiscated by the Madrid government, and the gold ornamentation of the Chapel of St. Ignacio, upper right, and the magnificent panels and carving of the Sacristy, left center, are valued at millions of dollars. Salaverria's painting of St. Ignacio, creator of the order, is reproduced upper left; and Seminarists of the Jesuit convent, Jesus de Loyola, who will be driven from Spain, are pictured right, center.

100 BUSHELS DAILY IS GIRL'S RECORD

Audubon, Ia.—(CP)—Audubon county thinks it has the "uncrowned champion" of Iowa women corn huskers.

She is Louise Jensen, 17-year-old girl who "didn't hear" about the state husking contest for women, but who had a record of more than 90 bushels of corn a day throughout the last season.

Her best day produced a grist of 100 bushels, and she consistently outshook the hired man on her father's farm.

And she finds time to milk 11 cows daily, too!

AILING GORILLA OWES LIFE TO OXYGEN TENT

St. Louis—(AP)—It took quite a struggle to keep Yonnoh in the land of the living, but officials of the St. Louis zoo have triumphed over great odds.

With the assistance of a lung specialist, an oxygen tent and the latest scientific treatment they have saved the midwest's only gorilla from pneumonia.

Yonnoh really was seriously ill. For days her life was despaired of. But 18 hours out of 24 spent in the tent proved the trick that turned the tide.

Now Yonnoh, formerly a rough, polterous youngster, is extremely tractable, gentle and friendly.

HEIR TO POWER OF MUSSOLINI SEEN IN FORMER NAVAL HERO

Minister of Communications Most Talked of Successor to Duce

Rome—(CP)—Count Costanzo Ciano, Mussolini's minister of communications (postoffice, railroads, telegraph) enjoys three distinctions. He is most talked of as Duce's successor. He has had the longest official life of any of the premier's ministerial assistants, having held his office since 1924. And he is the only minister in any way related to his chief, for Mussolini does not believe in nepotism.

In addition, he is a sea fighter of great courage, to which half-a-dozen world war medals attest.

Several years ago someone asked Mussolini, "Tour excellency, what will happen to Italy after you are gone?"

"I have already provided for that," Mussolini replied.

Since then most people in Italy have believed he has designated Ciano as his successor. When a year ago Mussolini seemed on the point of creating the position of vice-premier, everyone said Ciano would get it.

Ciano and Mussolini have been very close personally. Ciano's son, Galeazzo, now consul-general at Shanghai, married Edda Mussolini two years ago. Mussolini was best man at the wedding of Ciano's daughter a few months ago. It was Ciano who was chosen to tell him of his brother Arnaldo's death.

Ciano, at 55, still looks the part he played in the world war—a sea captain. He has a sturdy body and a stern eye. He wears a fierce mustache.

He spent 28 years in naval service, having entered the naval academy of Lehigh at the age of 15.

In the war his most noted exploit was against the Austrian fleet bottled up in Buccari. He led three submarines through 90 miles of straits and canals under enemy guns, launched six destructive torpedoes against the fleet, and got off safely.

As minister of communications Ciano has modernized and increased the efficiency of Italian railroads. He made the public "rail conscious" and increased travel by ridiculously low weekend excursion rates.

Santiago, Cuba, Heavy Loser In Disastrous Earthquake

This panoramic view shows Santiago, Cuba, where a disastrous earthquake occurred. At the left is the Jesuit college. In the center and right background is shown the land-locked harbor running out six miles to the ocean. On the southern coast of Cuba, Santiago is 540 miles southeast of Havana. It has a population of about 140,000. At the mouth of the harbor, near old Morro Castle, Captain Richmond P. Hobson sank the Merrimack in an endeavor to block the Spanish fleet in 1898. The Spanish flotilla tried to slip out to sea, but was overwhelmed by the American fleet under Admiral Sampson and the entire fleet captured or destroyed in the engagement. Reports today placed the number of deaths at nine, with 1,000 injured, and the property damage at $10,000,000.

Who's News Today

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON

New York—(CPA)—American observers find in the assignment of Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, as chief of Japanese operations at Shanghai a new hope that the far eastern situation will be brought under international control, and further disasters averted. Admiral Koichi Shiozawa, whom he succeeds, has been sharply criticized as the fighting got "out of bounds." Friends of Admiral Nomura here and in Washington say he may be depended upon to exercise restraint and enforce discipline.

He was naval attaché at Washington during the world war. In 1931, he attended the disarmament conference at Washington, as adjutant to Japan's naval delegate. In 1929, he commanded a Japanese training squadron visiting eastern cities of the United States. Naval officials attribute to him high qualities of statesmanship. He is 54 years old. He participated in the Russo-Japanese war and his entire career has been in the navy.

Try this on your trans-Atlantic cable: A. Rattray, 50-year-old head hunter for Lord Furness—he hunts lions, not heads—took two zebras from Africa to his lordship in London. There he met the beautiful Averil, his employer's daughter, and, down in the jungles near Nairobi, he married her. Averil sent an airplane into the jungles to tell papa, who is a great hunter. Papa sent back word that "Mr. Rattray ceases to be the white hunter to my Safari." J. P. Lucy, who has killed 300 lions gets the job as head hunter.

Movie script writers, in picking this up, may go back to the Franco-Prussian war when Lord Furness' father, Christopher, was a coal passer at Hartlepool. He cornered a lot of flour and thence came the great Furness shipping interests. The older Furness was knighted and refused to pick a fancy title, as did his son when they made him a yord. In 1919, the present Lord Furness bought the beautiful historic mansion of the Duchess of Marlborough. His first wife, who was Daisy Hogg, died on his yacht, Sapphire, in 1921. In 1926, he married Mrs. Thelma Morgan Converse, sister of Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt. Mr. Rattray's years seem to bar him from the juvenile lead, but there's Lewis Stone, for roles like that.

Tall, angular, Calvinistic Senator Wesley L. Jones, author of the "five and ten" law, puts in a bill to withdraw the protection of the army and navy from the wet states. There's an old story, possibly apocryphal, which relates an outrage on Senator Jones which would make anybody a prohibitionist. On Saturday nights, saloons at Yakima, Wash., were full of roaring lumberjacks. Mr. Jones was campaigning. In each place a gifted orator entered and made an eloquent address for Mr. Jones. Then he approached the bar. The cheering, but thirsty crowd surged up. Then the orator put down a nickel, ordered a glass of beer, and walked out, leaving a howling mob execrating the name of Jones. So runs the tale. But, there is no doubt whatever that Mr. Jones is a prohibitionist on principle. It is thoroughly attested that the only drink he ever had was a spoonful of brandy, given him by a nurse before he came out of the ether after an operation. At sixteen, he was a country school teacher near Bethany, Ill., supporting a widowed mother. He went west in his youth and practiced law at Yakima. He is a hard working senator. In 1899 he licked J. Hamilton Lewis in a race for congress. In 1909 he went to the senate.

The horse aid society, led by its president and founder, Mrs. Jacob M. Ehrlich, starts a campaign for a ten-hour day for horses. They now work them sixteen to eighteen hours a day, say the campaigners. For many years, Mrs. Ehrlich, of a highly placed New York family with an up-town mansion, has been spending $12,000 a year for her best farm for horses, near Millwood, Westchester country, New York. There she maintains a horse paradise, also open to tramp cats and dogs. Seeing

FOUR MEMBERS IN AVERAGE FAMILY IN BADGER STATE

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—Wisconsin's average family has about four members, 4.94 to be exact, according to a census bureau report.

Of the 711,859 private families in the state on April 1, 1930, nearly three-fourths were classified as native white and about 25 per cent were classified as foreign-born while only a small fraction were negro or other races. This classification was based on the race of the head of the family in every case.

More than half of Wisconsin's families own their own homes—440,197 or 61.8 per cent of the family groups in the state belonging in the home owning class as compared to 356,311 or 38 per cent in the tenant class and 2.1 per cent of unknown tenure. Though more than half of Wisconsin's 363,265 families own radio sets, only 38.3 per cent of the rural families in the state can tune in on broadcasting programs while 59 per cent of the town families of Wisconsin have radio sets.

Dayton, O.—A wing flap for airplanes which, it is said, will reduce landing speed from 65 to 35 miles an hour, has been developed by Howard M. Rinehart. Marquette Football Coaching Job Is Considered "Open"

EXPECT MURRAY WILL TAKE NEW POST AT IOWA

But Mentor Denies He Has Had Anything Except Informal Talk

MILWAUKEE.—(P)—As far as the athletic board of Marquette University is concerned, the position of football coach at the school is considered "open." It was learned today from authentic sources.

It was expected that in the event Frank J. Murray, present football coach, who visited the University of Iowa yesterday, does not make a coaching contact there that he will return to the position he has held here for several years.

The board yesterday afternoon held a meeting at which the coaching situation was discussed, but no announcement was made public at its conclusion.

Murray was the fifth coach called to Iowa City to discuss the coaching situation with Hawkeye officials. In a telephone conversation with a Milwaukee newspaper last night, he denied he had been offered a position at Iowa, stating everything there was in the informal stage.

Conrad Jennings, Marquette athletic director, said he did not know what action would follow in the event Murray does not sign at Iowa and fails to ask renewal of his verbal contract here.

"All I know," Jennings said, "is that the board apparently decided Murray was not satisfied with his position and then went ahead on the belief that the position was open."

Want Chevinery
Campus circles expected that Jack Chevinery, former Notre Dame star and recent backfield coach for the Irish, would apply for the Marquette post. He was here a few days ago talking unofficially with Marquette authorities.

In the telephone conversation, Murray said he was not sure that there was absolutely no discussion of salary or contract with Iowa officials. I have not been offered the position and might not accept it if offered. Any intimation that I am not satisfied at Marquette is false," he said, news reports quoting him to the contrary were garbled.

Murray expressed surprise at the reports the Marquette position had been declared "open." "I can understand that there might be some anxiety about spring football practice in the event I bettered myself with a position elsewhere, but because of my cordial relations at Marquette for 10 years they should have known I would not throw them down."

In view of the telephonic declaration by Murray, Marquette followers said they expected the whole thing would be settled within a few days after Murray's return with Murray still in the same position.

Solemn Contests
Iowa City, Ia.—(P)—Ossie Solem, head football coach at Drake University, Des Moines, conferred with members of the University of Iowa athletic board today regarding the head football coaching position here.

FRIDAY'S SCHEDULE
DePere at Sturgeon Bay.
Kaukauna at Neenah.
Algoma at Kewaunee.
Two Rivers at Menasha.
West DePere at Shawano.
Gillette at Oconto Falls.
New London at Clintonville (non-conference).

DEPERE—Displaying championship form once more, the three leading, and the only undefeated teams in the Northeastern Wisconsin conference find themselves today the only teams with a chance for the 1932 title. The teams are DePere, with six victories, Neenah and Kaukauna, with three victories apiece.

Break Due This Week
A break is due this week and the contenders will be reduced to two. It is certain with an outside chance that only one may survive in the unbeaten class. The break will come in the Neenah-Kaukauna game, which will be played at Neenah, Friday night, and the manner in which the Neenah Rockets have been bowling over opponents make it practically sure that Kaukauna will be eliminated from the ranks of the unbeaten.

The DePere team will play Sturgeon Bay high at Sturgeon Bay, and the Braishermen should grab their seventh league victory on their impressive showing to date. The loss of a match by Sturgeon Bay last Friday to the Algoma team which has failed to win in three starts up to that time, offers additional proof that only an unexpected revival by the Bays, and a complete reversal of form on the part of DePere will cause a defeat of DePere.

Neenah looks strong
The ease with which the DePere and Neenah teams won their games stamps them as classy aggregations. Neenah defended its basket so perfectly that Menasha didn't shoot a field goal and it opened up an offense that produced a high count. The score was 34 to 10. The DePere team minus Capt. Harold Schumert, jorged along to a 26 to 15 victory over New London, and at no time was called upon to exert itself.

The Kaukauna highs put Shawano out of the running for the title by administering a 21 to 10 beating at Kaukauna, and showed improvement in shooting over past performances. The loss was the second by Shawano in six games.

West and Oconto Falls Tie
West DePere moved into a sixth place tie with Oconto Falls by winning a wild exhibition from Two Rivers, 25 to 23. The victory was the 11th for the Phantoms. Algoma's 11 to 4 for the Phantoms. Algoma's win over Sturgeon Bay was accomplished in a second overtime period, 14 to 10.

In addition to the matches in which the three leaders will be involved, the other games scheduled are between Algoma and Kewaunee at Kewaunee, West DePere, and Shawano at Shawano, Two Rivers and Menasha, Gillette and Oconto Falls at the Falls. The New London boys will meet Clintonville at Clintonville in a non-conference game.

Two teams were closely matched. Goossens was the big gun for the Sophomore's and scored practically all of his team's points, getting eight buckets and two gift shots.

But I must say this is a wonder. I don't place to have an accident if you must be injured somewhere. If we can't take in the games at least we can take our places with the German delegation at the ceremonies to day. It would do me if I had broken both legs.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS ... By Laufer

THEY ALL LAUGHED WHEN DUMMY TAYLOR, deaf and dumb pitcher of the Giants, caused the calling of a ball game on account of rain—in fact even the umpires laughed. Rain was falling when the game started and continued to fall during the first few innings. Soon the players were soaking wet and it didn't help their tempers. They demanded that the umpires call the game, but the dignified arbiters were unmoved. Finally, about the seventh inning when the Giants came to bat, a strange looking ball player strode out to the third base coaching box. It was Dummy—wearing hip boots and carrying an umbrella. Then the game was called!

ILLINOIS PASSES 15 ROUND BOXING BILL
Chicago.—(P)—Chicago's fight for a 15 round boxing bill for heavy weight championship matches apparently has been won.

The bill has passed the state house and senate and will be sent to the governor for his signature after the two legislative branches agree on minor differences.

Fifteen per cent of the gross gate receipts from all such heavyweight championship matches in Illinois will go to the state under the terms of the bill, which concerns the heavy weight championship fight.

Hack Gets Enthusiastic About Brooklyn Fences

BY JOHN B. FOSTER
Copyright, 1932

NEW YORK.—(CFA)—Hack Wilson, the most pronounced cubist outfielder of the major leagues, is saturated with joy and good cheer today because he has escaped the thrall of St. Louis for that of Brooklyn. It is a question whether Brooklyn has annexed Hack as a rival to Coney Island and the Rockaways, or Hack has annexed Brooklyn to his four by four anatomy for a play thing.

Beaming and full of good cheer and promises to work his head off to help bring a pennant to the Robins this season, the portly appearing Hack affixed his signature to a Brooklyn contract for $16,500 while cameras clicked and ground away recording a new lease on life for the former home run champion of the National league. Then he donned a Robin uniform and went to the dug-out at Ebbets field to allow the photographers more "shots" at him.

"How are your home run vitamins, Hack?"

"Never better. I've been sizzling up those fences," he looked over the outer gardens of Ebbets field, "I think I can hit 'em over easier in Brooklyn than I did in Chicago in 1930."

"Do you have hopes that this will be a record breaking year for you?"

"Ready to Play Head Off"

"I'll be ready in April to play my head off for Max Carey and of course I hope for the best."

"Do you think you will like training in Florida better than you liked the Catalina climate?"

"I don't know a great deal about Florida. I liked it at Catalina, but there were two kinds of goats there. One kind filled the mountain tops. The other kind filled my shoes. You could hit a home run at Catalina from one mountain to another because the outfield was that deep. A fellow couldn't get target practice batting there because the perspective was somewhere between Catalina and the mainland in the Pacific ocean. They tell me it isn't so at Clearwater where we train in the spring. Down there you get a real right field target because the fence is close up, like a movie. That'll get me fit to am at the Brooklyn fences. Somehow I am beginning to have an affection for those fences. The more I see of 'em the better I like 'em."

"Hack, what is your batting style that they talk so much about?"

"Natural Swing"

"It's just natural, that's all. I left a bat so and I swing it so. Some managers say I swing it without a proper idea about its balance. Now what's that got to do with my batting. I know when the bat sets tight in my grip, don't I, and I know when I swing what I'm after. What more can a fellow do who ain't been brought up any other way? When I was a kid I just went out and batted. And that's what I've been doing pretty much ever since. If they let me alone I can keep on doing it."

"Didn't they let you do that in Chicago?"

"Well you see Hornsby said I was swingin' for strikeouts. He said when he began he was swingin' for strikeouts, but he broke himself of it because John McGraw and one or two others told him how to swing for the batting championship, and then he won it. He wanted me to swing for the batting championship, but the only way I knew how to swing was to swing for Hack. The more I think about that fence out there in right field and that right center field fence the better I like 'em. And I'm goin' to try to make Brooklyn like me."

the United States. In the afternoon the 5,000 metres trials were scheduled, with the final following the hockey game between Germany and Poland.

Ivar Ballangrud, of Norway, defending his Olympic championship was the 5,000 metres favorite although living later United States star, was expected to give him a tussle.

'CAT CAGE RESERVES SEE LITTLE ACTION

Evansville, Ill.—(P)—Substitutes on Northwestern's basketball team, undisputed holder of first place in the Big Ten title chase with six straight victories, are playing a great game this season—on the bench.

Principally because of the closeness of the games, substitutes have been unusual in the Wildcat cage ranks this season. In the last two games against Wisconsin and Ohio State, there were none at all. Not a substitute was employed in the first Wisconsin game either while in the other three battles, the regulars were used until the closing minute of play.

This is the "iron man" lineup used by the Wildcats: Joe Reiff and Elmer Johnson, forwards; Bob McCarnes, center; Gus Smith and Saul Farber, guards.

Three of the Wildcat victories were by the margin of a single point.

ELLSWORTH VINES PLAYS TENNIS BUT WORRIES OVER GOLF

Nation's Ranking Net Star Doesn't Like Social Obligations

(This is another of an Associated Press series on the personalities and accomplishments of young Americans in the 1932 sports spotlight.)

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

ASADENA, CALIF.—(P)—Ellsworth Vines, Jr., is the nation's ranking tennis star and probably the greatest court project since William T. Tilden appeared, but he worries more over the formula for sinking long puts than he does about scoring service aces.

He marvels at the golfing ability of Francis Ouimet, Billy Burke, Bobby Jones and the rest, and looks forward to the day when he can break a hundred. Some day, after he has made his mark in business as well as tennis, Vines is going to concentrate on golf with this end in view.

Last summer this lean, lanky youth of 20, won more tennis titles than any other player ever before gathered in a single season. But to see him draped over the books of a stock and bond firm, you would hardly recognize in him the ability that has stamped him the country's leading Davis cup team hope.

Vines likes tennis but the social obligations that go hand in hand with the national title bore him. He gets sleepy at nine o'clock when most gatherings are called into session and he is ready to leave before 11. Usually he does.

He doesn't care for dancing and he feels awkward on a floor. He likes bridge but doesn't play much because he can't find partners to go with him. His friends either are too good or not good enough.

Admits He's Lucky
He is willing to admit that luck, perhaps more than any other factor, shot him to the top of the American tennis world last summer, but he wants it distinctly understood that the same good fortune doesn't account for the fact that he is a good student.

He did not leave the University of California because of scholastic difficulties and he'd like that generally understood. He was a good student even though he had his job after school hours, was keeping up his tennis, and trying to make basketball practice regularly.

As far back as Vines can remember, finances have been his chief worry. He has been offered large sums to turn professional, but he could use the money. But he is determined to remain an amateur and play as such. He is coming back to U. S. C. again next fall to resume his business courses. Right now he thinks travel will teach him more than his lessons.

Vines lives in constant fear that someone will consider him "high hat." He will talk to anyone, listen to long instructive monologues from persons who have never had a racket in their hands, and he often plays with slight acquaintances who can scarcely get a ball over the net.

COMMITTEE WANTS ATHLETIC COUNCIL TO MAKE REPORT

Urges New Laws to Clear Up Confused Conditions at University

Madison—(P)—Recommendations for proposed legislation to remedy confused conditions in University of Wisconsin athletics was contained in the report of the special investigating faculty committee.

The proposed legislation included:

1. The athletic council shall prepare an annual report to the faculty, including the financial statement and the program of sports for the year in question, together with such other information as it considers important.
2. The athletic council shall, before taking final action, submit for faculty approval (1) all proposed expenditures from operating receipts made for the purchase of land for permanent improvements where the amount of the expenditure is $10,000.00 or more; and (2) any proposed material modification or extension of the sport program covered by the last report to the faculty.
- 3.—The interclass fund shall be audited annually by an auditor approved by the university business office, and the results of such audit shall be reported to the business manager of the university. It shall be the duty of the athletic council to secure compliance with this regulation.
4. No student shall be allowed to engage in more than two major sports in any one academic year except by the express consent of the athletic council. No student shall engage in intercollegiate football and basketball in the same year except with the express consent of the council.
5. The athletic council is hereby empowered and directed, either through the joint action of the dean of men and the dean of women, or otherwise, to make all desirable regulations with regard to the railroad trips of students attending out-of-town games. If the railroad authorities are unwilling to cooperate with the university in the matter of accommodations or in the enforcement of regulations, the dean of women shall refuse to give permits to women students to make use of the accommodations in question, at the same time informing the parents of the applicants the grounds upon which such refusal is based.
6. In so far as the conditions prescribed in recommendations 9 and 10 of section II, B are satisfied, the university faculty recommends to the board of regents that it place the position of athletic coach on the same level of security as that of any other member of the faculty of similar rank. This does not preclude a first appointment for a limited period of time, such as three years, in order to give the coach an opportunity to show his fitness for the position; but we recommend the adoption of a policy according to which, at the conclusion of a period of probation, he be either dismissed or given a permanent position.
7. When permanency of tenure shall have been obtained, the university faculty recommends to the board of regents that it move as rapidly as possible towards the adoption of a scale of salaries for coaching positions similar to those of other faculty members having equal rank.
8. The university faculty recommends to the board of regents that the regents' by-laws determining the constitution of the athletic council (by-laws of the regents: faculty, rules, ch. IV, sec. I.I.b) be amended to read as follows:

"Subject to the authority of the faculty, the control of intercollegiate athletics shall continue to be vested in an athletic council which shall remain a sub-committee of the committee on student life and interests. This council shall consist of seven members to be appointed by the president of the university. Of these seven appointees, the business manager of the university shall be one; the chairman of the (faculty) committee on student life and interests shall be another; a third shall be the choice of the president from among three persons nominated by the executive committee of the Alumni association; a fourth shall be the president of the Student Athletic board. The remaining three members shall be chosen from the legal faculty exclusive of those faculty members who receive pay primarily for services connected with athletics or the department of physical education."

MOST STATE HOMES ARE VALUED FROM $3,000 TO $7,500

About 20 Per Cent of All Residences Have Value of More Than $7,500

Washington—More than half the homes owned by Badger families have a value ranging between $3,000 and $7,500, a report made public by the census bureau indicates.

When the last census was taken, Wisconsin families owned 298,457 non-farm homes of which 77.3 per cent were worth between $3,500 and $5,000 and 26.4 per cent were worth between $5,000 and $7,500. This places 53.6 per cent of the non-farm homes owned by Badger families in the price range between $3,000 and $7,500 and leaves only 12.7 per cent of the owned non-farm homes in the less-than-$2,000 class.

Nearly 20 per cent of the homes owned by Wisconsin families have a value of more than $7,500, however.

Rents paid by Badger families for non-farm homes are scattered over a wide price range. A monthly rental of less than $15 was reported for 16 per cent of the state's 218,059 rented non-farm homes.

About twice as many families, 35.6 per cent, belong in the next higher rent classification, paying between $15 and $30, while 30 per cent pay a rental of between $30 and $50, and 15.5 per cent pay $50 or more monthly rental.

The middle rent paid for rented non-farm homes in the state is $28.9

A medley of Geishwin compositions, "Of These I Sing," "Who Cares" and "Blah, Blah, Blah," will be played by an orchestra in a per month. For native white families, this middle rent is higher—$20.13 but the lower rent paid by foreign born white families brings down the average. The medium rent paid by negro families is still lower, $26.41.

The middle value of non-farm homes owned by Badger families is $4,781. Native white families own the highest priced homes as a rule, reporting a median value of $4,383, as compared to $4,551, the median value of homes owned by Wisconsin's foreign born whites, and $3,410 the median price for homes owned by negro families in Wisconsin.

Teachers Outline Proposals at Meeting of Lincoln School

Programs for the Washington bi-centennial programs in Appletton schools were discussed at principals' meetings at Lincoln school Tuesday.

A. G. Oosterhous, Roosevelt junior high school, chairman of the school programs, had charge of both the junior high school principals' meeting in the morning and the grade school principals' meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Grade schools will present afternoon programs on Washington's birthday, some being given in the school assembly but most of them being schoolroom programs. Students will participate in these programs with recitations, dialogues and historical presentations. Parents will be invited to attend these afternoon programs at the various schools.

Junior high schools will present a student assembly program the afternoon of Feb. 22 and will also give an evening program in the school auditorium for parents and outsiders. Each program is being arranged at the three junior high schools, Roosevelt, McKinley and Wilson. At Appletton high school, a faculty committee consisting of the social science, and English departments, will outline the Washington program.

UPWARD TREND SEEN IN PRICE OF FARM GOODS

Believe Bottom Has Been Touched and Upswing
Is Now Definite

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press
Chicago —(CPA)— Signs accumulate in the middle west that agriculture has touched rock bottom and now verges on an upward turn. The evidence leads former Governor Frank O. Lowden to declare that when recovery comes from the present low economic level, it first will be reflected back on the land. Grain prices, although approximately 25 per cent above the world level, refuse to be repressed and swing higher at every opportunity. They are held back from a major advance by heavy marketing of southern hemisphere wheat. But the bottom seems to be around 55 cents for the May delivery of wheat, 38 cents for corn and 25 cents for oats, with the tendency to range higher. Livestock values have been badly hit of late, but now G. F. Swift, head of Swift and Company, largest packers, expresses the opinion that "the general price level shows signs of having reached a fair degree of stability." The top of the hog market stays above $4 a hundredweight, that of cattle above $10 for prime steers and best lambs keep their head above $6 a hundredweight. It is much the same story with dairy products and butter during January held at about the same level as a year ago, in spite of larger production.

Deflation Over
As an indication that deflation has been thorough in rural districts the Federal Reserve Bank of the ninth district, representing northwest states, points out that the total mortgage farm debt has been declining in spite of the recently distressing agricultural conditions. Its figures are as of 1930 compared with 1928 and 1929, but in view of banking and investment conditions, a further decline in total mortgage debt is indicated for 1931. The survey showed that during the two years from 1928 to 1930, the mortgage total of Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota declined, while that of Montana increased. In 1930 the farm mortgage debt of Montana and North Dakota was smaller than that of 1920, while in Minnesota and South Dakota, the total was only slightly increased for the 10-year period. The total present farm mortgage debt for the four states, as of January 1, 1930, totaled $1,159,500,000. Moisture conditions over the vast middle western farm area, which a year ago were unsatisfactory, now are excellent. There is every prospect that the next crop will have an ample reserve of soil moisture to give it an excellent start. At the same time the winter wheat crop of the southwest and Ohio valley, showing an excessive growth due to the abnormally warm winter, is in a dangerous situation should temperatures suddenly drop before a snow covering is provided. Nearly all food products now are back at pre-war retail prices and this is expected to stimulate consumption. The institute of American meat packers today pointed out that at wholesale, pork hams are selling 50 per cent under 1930, hams from 40 to 49 per cent lower, bacon 43 per cent down, while beef prices are off from 26 to 49 per cent, veal 50 per cent and lamb 50 per cent. "Wholesale meat prices," the institute says, "have declined commensurately with the enormous declines in livestock prices."

15 GROUPS TAKE PART IN STATE DRAMA MEET

Madison —(AP)— Fifteen county groups, winners in county contests, will compete in the state rural adult drama contest to be held in connection with farm and home week here Thursday and Friday. Judges for the preliminary contests tomorrow and Friday morning are E. R. McIntyre of the Wisconsin Farmer-Agriculturist; Mrs. H. L. Ewbank, instructor in dramatics and speech at West high school, Madison, and H. C. Howard, dramatic and speech instructor at Wisconsin high school, Madison. The final contest will be judged by Irma Borchers of Platteville state teachers college, Mrs. Kathryn Garland of Madison and Eugene Bahn of the University of Wisconsin speech department. The State Rural Adult music contest will be held Friday afternoon.

NOISE RUINS DIGESTION

New York—If you are a victim of nervous indigestion, try eating in a quieter place. Dr. Donald A. Laird, of Colgate University, has found that noise plays a large part in causing this malady. Noise is said to cause a decrease in the flow of saliva in the mouth and gastric juice in the stomach. A counteracting agent has been found in sweet foods.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU
BY MARY BLAKE
"AQUARIUS"

If February 5th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to 11:45 a. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:20 p. m. The danger periods are from 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:30 p. m.

The astrological signs on February 5th portend that the river of life will move slowly; delays are indicated, plans will be postponed, and business will be sluggish. Travel should be avoided as much as possible. Push sales, and avoid buying! "Romantic" temptations will waylay married people, causing a temporary alienation within the home. The child born on this February 5th will have a contented nature and will seldom be cross or irritable. It will be fond of outdoor sports and will crave excitement. It will be loyal and true in its friendships, and will be popular amongst its own "set." Born February 5th, you are self-reliant in the extreme, and somewhat callous to everything but self interest. Your contempt for public opinion is unlimited, but your cool head and sharp tongue are usually able to control most situations in which you may find yourself. You are far too selfish to trouble yourself about the likes and dislikes of those among whom you might be thrown. Poetry and sentiment are conspicuously lacking in your "make-up."

You are very sensitive about your own affairs, and the abnegation of self in your conversation is pleasant from its rarity. You are an inveterate and intelligent reader, and to a certain extent you lead to talk. You are generally well up in all the current topics of the day, and with men mostly get on well. Like most people of a nervous temperament, you make a stronger running in the evening than during the earlier hours of the day; you are not by nature an "early bird."

You are rather easily offended, and harbour resentment. You are stubborn in the pursuit of anything you really desire, and you usually have your own way. You will border on the brink of matrimony many times before you take the final plunge. Although you must be "boss" within the home, you try to be an agreeable companion, and

Mementoes Prove Movie Actors Are Sentimental

Hollywood —(CPA)— They're so sentimental, these Hollywood actors, that many of them save a memento connected with a childhood memory, with graduation day, or with the various pictures in which they have had roles. Marguerite Churchill has a box full of souvenirs of her picture roles, a brooch from one, a shoe from another. Richard Arlen has a medal for swimming, won when he was at Central high school in St. Paul. George Bancroft treasures a picture of his parents and himself, taken when he got his first job as a telegraph messenger boy. Tallulah Bankhead has the dress she wore when she was graduated from school. Nancy Carroll kept the first handbag she ever bought. It is tiny and shapeless and tattered and worn, but she wouldn't part with it for anything. Maurice Chevalier always wears a ring given to him by his wife before they were married. Claudette Colbert has a tiny link bracelet presented by her first boy friend. Gary Cooper has the bridle he used when he was learning to ride a horse and also a stuffed eagle, a bird which he shot when he was 14 years old. Marlene Dietrich prizes most among her possessions a very nice violin. Miss Dietrich started out to be a concert violinist.

The Right Way to Reduce

If you are over-fat, do what doctors the world over now are doing. They supply a lacking gland secretion which helps turn food to energy, rather than to fat. The results are seen everywhere. Without starvation, multitudes of people have gained new beauty, youth and vim. That right method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. Now in every circle you see slender, happy people who can tell you the results. Go do what they did. Ask your druggist for Marmola. A book in the box will tell you all about it. Take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal, and vim comes back. Start Marmola now.

on six different occasions, what seemed at the time to be unusual bargains. The abrupt break in stocks two years ago last autumn tempted many people with idle funds on with resources easily available to buy stocks that had experienced a tremendous decline, in contrast with those with which they recently had been familiar. So they bought heavily and expected to make large and immediate profits. This policy proved to be ill-advised and costly.

More Drops Follow
Again in the summer and in the later months of 1930, with stocks at new low levels and few dividends then reduced, the opportunities for "long pull investments" appeared exceptional to the individual and to institutions as well as to investment trusts. So further accumulation took place. This also resulted in almost immediate paper losses. In June, October and December of last year it looked as though the market had reached bottom and that stocks should be bought. After prices had gone through a good rally they sank quickly back and finally violated their previous low range. The last dip occurred a month ago. It is significant that, when the averages then broke through those of the previous December and October, there was less buying than in any one of the earlier periods. The investor had finally come to the conclusion that stocks had not made a complete readjustment to the new conditions and that perhaps it would be wiser to hold on until the evidence of permanent recovery in business was given by a higher range of securities. This is quite generally his attitude today.

With commodities, the decline from the high point of 1929 has been more gradual than in stocks and less interrupted by periods of recovery.
According to the index of the bureau of labor statistics, the average of all commodities declined 10 points from 1929 to the end of 1930, with the sharpest reaction in the last quarter of that year.
During 1931 there was a further drop of 10 points, each month showing a slight recession with the exception of August, when there was a nominal advance. The speculation in grain in October, with which cotton to some extent sympathized, temporarily advanced the commodity list. It did not hold and was offset by declines in other products.
During January some slight improvement was indicated in certain lists of commodities but there were losses in others, so that on the average the entire list stands now at approximately the low level of the depression and somewhere between the averages of the 1913-1916 period.

Buying Is Reduced
This situation has reduced the buying of commodities to immediate needs. The purchaser of raw materials is just as confused over the outlook as the potential investor in securities. He is not sure whether the thing he needs to develop his business is at or near the bottom or may go lower. Only this week there have been new low prices for all time in copper metal, zinc and sugar. Some of the farm products are not so cheap as in October, but are much lower than six or 12 months ago. Commission merchants have the same difficulty facing them as buyers of raw materials, for frequently in recent months they have seen goods, bought at what apparently were rock bottom quotations, offered 10 per cent or more lower before their consignments had been received from the factories.

In spite of the heavy "write-offs" in inventories at the end of 1930, it was necessary for business corporations to make further large charges to depreciation in commodities and in manufactured goods on Dec. 31 last. They have been doing the same thing as the investor did, especially the institutional and finance company investor, with his securities at the end of 1931. Whatever profits there were from operations or from income in that year were overbalanced by shrinkages in inventories or in investments. To this fact is largely due the unwillingness of the supporters of both markets to go ahead and make commitments, even though they have complete confidence that securities or commodities purchased at the present level will show a substantial appreciation within the next 12 months.

An Air Conqueror — and Just Turning 30

At 30 Col. Charles A. Lindbergh already has assured himself of a place in world aviation history. From an obscure boyhood he lifted himself to international fame—first with a non-stop hop from New York to Paris, and then with other daring flights. Born in Detroit February 4th, 1902, Lindbergh studied at commercial and army flying schools. Work as an air mail pilot preceded his world-renowned flights. Here is a brief summary of his outstanding feats: Non-stop New York to Paris flight, started May 20, 1927; Good will flight to Latin-America, South America and the West Indies, started December 13, 1927; air mail route inaugural flight to South America, 1929; Los Angeles to New York flight in 14 hours, 45 minutes and 32 seconds, April 20, 1930; flight to Japan and China, fall of 1931.

GOODLAND FAVORS FEDERAL AID TO RELIEVE JOBLESS

But Appleton's Mayor Does Not Approve Actual Dole to Cities

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—Appleton's mayor, John Goodland, Jr., came out definitely in favor of federal aid for emergency unemployment relief in a report submitted in Congress by Senator Robert L. LaFollette, Jr., in connection with consideration of the LaFollette-Costigan bill for $375,000,000.

Mayor Goodland reported that the number of unemployed persons receiving assistance in Appleton increased 75 per cent in December, 1930, as compared to December, 1929 and expenditures in their behalf doubled during the year. He stated further that he expects a 50 per cent increase in the number of persons needing aid this winter as compared to the 1929-30 winter.

Goodland added, however, that he believed that Appleton is in a position to float further bond issues to meet the relief needs of the community, if that should prove necessary. The mayor's opinion was elicited by a questionnaire circulated by Senator LaFollette among mayors of Wisconsin and other states. Though the opinion of the 30-odd Wisconsin mayors answering the LaFollette questionnaire was divided on the question of federal aid in relief work the majority opinion inclined in favor of some form of direct government aid.

Mayor Goodland explained this morning that his statement in the federal report should not be construed to mean that he favored a federal dole to cities, but merely that he is in favor of the government providing work for the unemployed through the construction of new federal buildings, highways, etc. He feels that it would be wise for the government to loan money, at a low rate of interest, to those cities which are bonded and borrowed to their limit, and that it might be well for the government to loan money at low interest for the construction of municipal projects such as schools, sewers, streets, etc. He was emphatic in his protest against the policy of giving money outright to municipalities for the aid of the poor, saying that this could only mean future trouble.

AN "OLD BUCK" PILOT
Philadelphia — Marvin H. Scarborough may be an "old buck," but he isn't too old to show some of the "young fellows" how to fly an airplane. Scarborough, 60, has just passed tests for a private pilot's license. He is believed to be one of the oldest pilots in the country. He has his own plane for pleasure flying.

To Break Up a Cold
In a Jiffy
Feel Like a New Person
In Just a Little While

People have found out that new-fangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to trifle with.

The thing to do is to get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too — that's all.

Soon you'll start to feel like a new person. Things will loosen up, your head will clear; aching go — you'll be back on the job with a wallop.

Get Hill's now. It is a scientific formula made to do one thing well: to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with twice the speed of anything else you've ever tried.

HUNGARIANS WANT FASTER EXECUTIONS

PARIS—(AP)—French criminals condemned to death by the guillotine may hereafter speed to their doom by automobile instead of being lumbered thither in a horse-drawn carriage.

The merciful speed with which M. Delbier, France's official headsman, performs his gruesome task once the victim has reached the foot of the scaffold is counteracted, say humanitarians and penologists, by the ordeal of the jerky, nerve-racking ride from prison.

In Paris a big van, drawn by two black horses, is used. It is a successor of the open tumbril, in which King Louis XVI, Marie Antoinette, and revolutionary leaders were drawn toward the ministrations of "the widow" in the gory days of the French revolution.

Eczema in Water Blisters Burned Terribly. Cuticura Healed.

"My little boy had eczema. The trouble first started on his left arm. It was in little patches of pimples and water blisters and itched and burned terribly. His clothing aggravated the breaking out on his body, especially when he got warm."

Millard of Milwaukee. The Rev. Leonard A. Parr, of the Union Congregational church at Green Bay will give the evening address.

On Monday afternoon an informal tea and reception will be held at the church from 2 to 5 o'clock, at which time members of the Ladies Aid society will preside as hostesses. At this time letters from former members will be read, and the historical exhibit, prepared by the committee on history will be read.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting
Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause. Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonard's HEM-ROID has the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 950 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Dr. Leonard's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external treatments or surgery when you can get HEM-ROID from your druggist. Try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case? Adv.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sorrowful complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Catarrhal Deafness May Be Relieved

A Simple, Safe and Reliable Way
That Calls for No Ugly Trumpets,
Phones or Other Instruments

Sufferers from catarrhal deafness are usually very sensitive, especially when carrying around instruments that call attention to their infirmity. So people who are hard of hearing and suffer from catarrhal deafness or head noises due to catarrh will be glad to know of a simple treatment that can be made up at home easily and yet is very effective in relieving all distressing catarrhal symptoms.

From Schlitz Bros. or any druggist get 1 oz. of Parmit (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it a pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

This treatment should by tonic action reduce the inflammation in the middle ear, and with the inflammation gone the distressing head noises, headache, cloudy thinking and dull feeling in the ears should gradually disappear. Anyone who suffers from catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises due to catarrh should give Parmit a trial. Adv.

FORGET PESSIMISM, FARM VISITORS TOLD

Leaders Express Confidence in Ability of Badger Rural Workers

Wisconsin farmers are going to carry on. They have a reputation for willingness to mix brains with brawn. They always have made adjustments to meet new and changed conditions.

Thus did Chris L. Christensen, dean of the Wisconsin college of agriculture and other farm leaders express their confidence at the farm and home week program now in session, in the ability and willingness of badger farmers to meet and solve issues before agriculture today just as they have met them in former times of stress.

Just as the farmers of Wisconsin found a way to make needed adjustments when faced with the evils of single crop farming, so they will exercise that same vision and courage today in meeting the problems of the next few years.

That there are many things which await the attention of Wisconsin farmers was pointed out. Among these are putting land to the purpose for which it is best suited—some for agriculture, some for forestry, some for game production, some for recreation, and some for other uses; the development of sound and efficient cooperative marketing; widening the markets for farm products and working out effective co-operations; increasing the efficiency of farm units of production without increasing their number; and enriching rural life by making a wise use of leisure which should follow the adoption of the best methods of farming.

To this end, Christensen pledges the assistance of the College of Agriculture and the Agricultural Experiment Station in as far as they are able to help. "We want to work with and for the farmers of the state in the solution of the problems of quality production, orderly marketing, and enriched living," the dean assured Badger farmers and homemakers at the annual program.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough due to a cold. It takes but a moment to mix, costs little, and saves money, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the gummy phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

SNOWFALL PROVES BENEFIT TO FARMS

Blanket Will Protect Winter Crops and Help Farmers to Cut and Haul Wood

BY W. F. WINSEY

The recent snow following the freeze up is what farmers needed but the snow should have been heavier.

The snow, if it remains where it fell will prevent the roots of winter crops from being broken off by alternate freezing and thawing or expansion and contraction. Up to the present time farmers are of the opinion that their alfalfa and other winter crops are in good condition.

The heavy freezing of the ground will make it easier than in the past for farmers to cut saw logs and other timber in their swamps and woodlots and to haul the product to the farmyards or saw mills.

The snow and heavy freezing will also make it possible for farmers and cheesemakers near ponds, lakes or rivers to harvest their year's supply of ice.

LIPPMANN GOES ABROAD

Walter Lippmann, whose articles appearing four times weekly in the Appleton Post-Crescent have been attracting so much attention, is on the Atlantic ocean sailing to Europe to observe at first hand the European economic and political situation. He will go first to Paris and probably will visit the other important European capitals, besides attending the World Disarmament conference at Geneva.

Mr. Lippmann, of course, is no stranger to Europe. He returned last September from an extensive visit abroad and he is returning at this time to renew his contacts and to study from first hand observation the constantly changing pattern of European politics. His visit is particularly opportune in view of the disarmament conference and the disturbance in the Far East. His wide acquaintance with European political and economic leaders opens the door to information denied other investigators.

During his stay abroad Mr. Lippmann will cable his observations to the Appleton Post-Crescent. Thus his articles will not only be authoritative but extremely timely as well.

If you have not already formed the habit of reading Mr. Lippmann's "Today and Tomorrow" it is not too late to start. You will find these comments of absorbing interest as well as of tremendous value.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

Chapter 1
HOPE FAIRFIELD ROSS was the prettiest, richest and most envied girl in town. None of which was to Hope's credit. God gave her her looks, her parents supplied the money, and the other girls of the distinguished Westchester settlement gave her the doubtful compliment of genuine envy.

Hair the color of buttercups is seldom a drawback to any girl. Hope had hair like that, and knew how to cut it so that it formed a tousled, rippling halo for her impudent, if somewhat wistful little face. She knew how to brush that hair until it gleamed like glossed silk. And best of all, she knew what hats to buy and at just what angle to wear them—the better to disconcert you with, my dear.

Her hair being the greatest of Hope's natural resources, it took time before one noticed other attractions about the sophisticated young upstart. The sassy mouth, for example; or the sprinkle of grubby little freckles, which, having been acquired in the days when Hope was a tomboy, uninitiated to the wiles of lipstick and Orchidee Bleue, had valiantly and resolutely clung to her cheeks and her abbreviated nose, becoming vulgarly vivid whenever Hope cried.

Not that Hope cried very often. Were sorrow and tears made for one whose fair skin (in spite of the freckles), reminded folks of clover fields and scented linen and good fresh soap? Or whose cuddly little figure thoroughly disguised the endurance of an athlete and the nervous strength of a lady tiger? A nice lady tiger, it's true, but a lady tiger just the same.

Up to the age of seventeen, Hope had the grandest and best parents in the world. What they did to their precious offspring at that tender age is the cause of this story. But prior to that time, they adored, petted, spoiled, admired and exclaimed with delight and approval. Even when Hope was naughty, the good Mama and Papa Ross were secretly proud and amused.

They remembered how at fourteen, Hope had suddenly turned right-about-face, and resolutely concentrated upon becoming grown-up. By the end of the year of high school, Hope invested in her first floppy picture hat, its back brim weighted with a huge pink satin bow. The effect quite completely disarmed Papa Ross, whose boastful grin turned into a blissful and shy ownership of this amazingly beautiful young problem.

She had suddenly realized her true mission in life, and was just as suddenly altering her entire mode and manner of behavior.

Gone, quite suddenly, were the velvet tam-o'-shanters that had flattered Hope's hair. Gone, the blue serge gym-bloomers, the middie blouses, the scurvy raincoats, and the leather-smelly lumber-jackets. Gone, gradually, were the fine hand-embroidered batiste and linen underthings, the gum-soled brogans, the woolen sports stockings, and the straight-up-and-down dresses that smacked of the "Junior Misses."

For Hope had met boys whose voices had permanently changed along with many of their ideas. Startled and thrilled, she discovered that males had other interests besides fist-fights, fishing and tinkering with a car! She, who could hunt and swim and ride with the best of them, realized that these triumphs were not her outstanding virtues. She, who at ten, had run her legs off to fetch and carry for the lordly males that tolerated her because she was "pretty good for a girl," now found that she could command and dominate to a surprising and dizzying degree.

By the end of her sophomore year, Hope had achieved the dignities of an evening-wrap, a make-up box amply filled, a date book, monogrammed stationery, and a feminine boudoir, be-lafetted and mirrored, with every drawer and every closet lined with quilted blue satin that was loaded to the seams with delicate sachet.

"It is," said Mama Ross whitely to her husband, "nothing short of disgraceful. Hope is boy crazy!"

home, in his smoking jacket presents the clearest manifestation of the German attitude toward France.

"Our policy is to take our stand on Article 8 of the Versailles Treaty, in which members of the League of Nations are specifically declared to have equal rights to security," declared the General. "Before we joined the League, even though we had been forced to sign the Treaty of Versailles, we had no legal right to claim equality as a member of the League. Since 1920, when we entered the League, we have had legal right to full equality with all other nations and the Treaty promises all nations the right to maintain armies sufficient to guarantee their security.

"There is no question that we do not have that security today. Our 100,000 men of the Reichswehr are surrounded by a ring of nations whose standing strength and war strength in men and equipment put us in a disadvantage of more than fifteen to one. We demand complete equality with our neighbors."

Threatens to Quit League

It seemed odd to hear juridical phrases from the General. We were surrounded by trophies of a lifetime of warfare, Chinese objects of art from the days when General Von Epp fought with Waldersee in the Boxer Expedition, native weapons bearing witness to colonial campaigns in Africa.

Only from one campaign were there no visible memorials. The General's regiment had stood before Verdun for six weeks. On one day the regiment lost 2,000 men. During six weeks it lost 5,000 men. During the war 18,000 men passed through its rolls. These memorials were in the General's mind. Verdun, he declared, represented the last conceivable apex of military exertion. The General, speaking of the war and its possibilities, certainly knew what he was talking about.

But the General went ahead to expatiate on the juridical tactics of the National Socialists in the armament question.

"We shall demand equality," he said, "and the French will not give it to us.

"Then we shall either withdraw from the League and declare that we resume our liberty or else we shall stand in the League but also declare that we resume our liberty of action in respect to armaments. Then it will be up to us to deter-her national strength, that would permit this country to achieve changes in the Treaty of Versailles more quickly than she could achieve them by a premature show of forces. Not even Dr. Stresemann would consent to give up the demand for a revision of Germany's eastern frontiers, and every candid Germany admits that the moment reparations disappear the Polish Corridor will come to the front as the next target for German foreign policies.

Sees Debts Threatened

Why the party that believes outspokenly in a show of force has grown to such huge proportions is a question that has already been discussed. The reasons certainly exclude any responsibility of America's. But one reason why that party, and as a matter of fact, most of Germany, is now more confident than ever that France may be successfully done has only become obvious after a long series of discussions with Germans of the various parties. Adolf Hitler put it plainly. General Von Epp expressed it again today.

"America," he said, "must know that any French attack upon Germany or any invasion of Germany would mean that all payments of private, as well as of political, debts from Germany would cease."

The conviction that the American flag follows American capital is almost a universal explanation here for the entrance of America into the war. This same German conviction had the ironical consequence today that the present American infatuation in Germany has become the prime factor in the aggravation of the Franco-German tension, while it is this tension, and in the last analysis only this tension, that makes these investments insecure.

It seems inevitable that this tension will increase. The testing point for the German thesis on American policy may not come over reparations; it may be difficult to avoid on the question of armaments. But, to be practical about it, I asked, "What can you do in the war of rearmament if France refuses to admit your claim and you declare that you have resumed your liberty of action? Can you afford openly to take any step that the French will interpret as a first move toward restoring the old army without calling down on your head a French invasion of Germany?"

"We could do nothing openly at first," the General admitted.

"What resistance could you offer to French invasion?" I asked.

"Nothing at first," he repeated. "Unless we received outside assistance, the French Army could occupy every large city in Germany in a very short time."

Wants a Showdown

The General called attention to familiar charts showing Germany's position in the midst of a circle of neighbors armed to their teeth. "But," he resumed, "the decision must come some time or else the situation of ours will stretch out forever. We must make up our minds to call for a showdown some time or resign ourselves to the fate of slaves."

Until now the talk had been unemotional. The General kept his voice under control, but there was a strong undercurrent of vibration as he exclaimed: "Perhaps it won't work out that way. Perhaps we shall have to go Bolshevik, but then we could at any rate die like men, fighting, and not like mice drowned in a trap."

I asked the General if he had heard of a plan of an Englishman, who having spent considerable time in reflection upon the armament question, had conceived the following tactic for Germany: The Government receives no satisfaction from France. France neither consents to reduce her armaments nor permits Germany to increase hers. Germany thereupon declares it has resumed liberty of action and in the next budget publishes openly appropriations for one heavy cannon, one military airplane and one tank, and then waits to see what France would do over mere appropriations for one of each of these weapons forbidden to Germany by the Versailles Treaty. Then, if France dared not send an army into Germany on account of one cannon, one airplane and one tank, the process of "gradual accumulation of power" could be continued.

The General had not heard of the idea, but he considered it ominously interesting. I asked Adolf Hitler the same question. He also had not reflected upon this possibility but his exclamation was, "Brilliant, a really brilliant idea."

In this and every other discussion with Germans on the disarmament question, the gun and substance of the talk always resolve into the practical question "How can Germany begin the realm?" The fact that no satisfactory answer has yet been found is no proof that it will not be found.

Program Defies France

A glance at the National Socialist program and literature proves that General Von Epp's views on rearmament are certainly not more extreme than those of his party. In the party's program there are three principal points dealing with matters affecting foreign politics. Every one of them is in principle a casus belli for the French.

The most important point reads: "We demand equal rights for the German people among all other nations, we demand the nullification of the treaties of Versailles and Saint Germain." It is to prevent the fulfillment of just such demands that the French Army exists.

The next point declares "on a basis of the right to national self-determination we demand unification of all Germans into one great Germany." This means in the first line an Austro-German union. The peace treaties forbid it specifically and France has officially declared that any attempt to such a union would be an occasion for war. The first indirect approach toward an ultimate union, the Austro-German customs pact, was followed by France's vigorous financial and political attack on Austria and Germany and this attack was followed by the German bank crisis and the world credit crisis in which we find ourselves today.

But the most essential point of the National Socialist program is: "We demand the abolition of the army of professional soldiers and the creation of a national army." This point is further interpreted officially by the party as a demand for the establishment of universal military service, in other words, the return to the pre-war German army system, which is precisely the system that the Versailles Treaty took every precaution to prevent.

In comparison with this point of view, every other demand of the National Socialists and of Germany as a whole becomes of subordinate interest. The reparations are of distinctly inferior significance, for the German point of view is that the only reason reparations or any other of the burdens of the Versailles Treaty exist is that Germany is disarmed.

Nation Backs Program

These are the National Socialist demands. They appear to have significance today chiefly because 60,000 Germans voted National Socialist in 1930 and because an estimated ten to twenty million people today or tomorrow, but the point of significance of the National Socialist demands is that they are the demands of the vast majority of Germans, and the only difference between the National Socialist program and the program of Germany as a whole is that the National Socialists have the candor or rashness to speak out their desires and that the National Socialists believe in the possibility of an earlier fulfillment of these desires than their opponents hold to be feasible.

The fundamental fact is that every German considers the Treaty of Versailles as an insult to Germany and that no German believes his country will remain permanently enslaved. Among all the parties in Germany with all their fraternal hostility for one another, there is only one common aim, namely, liberation from the Treaty of Versailles. The only differences among the parties and among the politicians in Germany lie in a choice of method and above all a choice of time.

INVADERS FAIL TO DRIVE FOE OUT OF CHAPEL

Whole City of Shanghai Is Shaken by Terrific Gun-fire in Battle

beached but later was refloated and withdrawn.

The Japanese, not bothering to deny the Chinese claims, contend themselves with reporting that the forts had been shot to pieces.

It was the second onslaught by the Japanese on the sector during the day and followed another heavy shelling of the Chinese fort at Woon-sung, 16 miles down the river, by Japanese warships.

The Chinese resistance in the Chapei sector surprised the Japanese, who laid detailed plans for a new attack with shock troops and artillery and aerial bombs.

Only machine guns and rifles were used in stemming the Japanese tide during the afternoon but the Chinese trench mortars dropped several shells around the Japanese headquarters in the international settlement.

Orders by Radio

At the Japanese headquarters this evening the staff was busy directing intricate street fighting in the city and synchronizing by radio the attacks by the airship.

As the correspondent's car drew up in front of the headquarters an officer pointed out stains on the pavement where sentries were killed by exploding Chinese shells and suggested the exercise of care.

The next attack, which Japanese hoped would end in clearing out all the Chinese from Mah Chai, was to sweep the Chinese positions with machine guns and three inch anti-aircraft shells.

The Japanese blue-jackets would hurriedly withdraw while the bombing planes swooped down and dumped their explosive cargoes on the buildings held by the Chinese. After this the blue-jackets were to rush in again in an attempt to gain a few yards during the confusion that was expected to result.

After four hours of heavy and persistent fighting earlier in the day the Japanese reported they had gained only a "little." They hoped the combined artillery and aerial attacks this evening would flatten out the congested area in Chapei, permit more open fighting and make possible a more rapid advance.

Heaviest Near Noon

The heaviest shelling took place between 11 o'clock and noon, an eye witness reported. After that Japanese shells were reported to have rained only a "little." They hoped the combined artillery and aerial attacks this evening would flatten out the congested area in Chapei, permit more open fighting and make possible a more rapid advance.

When I arrived, the observer said, "one of the destroyers apparently had been hit and was beached. But it got off later and steamed down the river. The Japanese airplanes were reported to have rained only a "little." They hoped the combined artillery and aerial attacks this evening would flatten out the congested area in Chapei, permit more open fighting and make possible a more rapid advance.

The firing had a tattoo for the landing of a fresh group of more than 300 United States marines from the cruiser Houston, which arrived from Manila yesterday. The leathernecks took it in fine humor, asking "where's the war?" as the boom of the warships' guns down the river, sharper fire in the city smote their ears.

The marines were marched to the international settlement, where they will take up posts to protect American lives and property. "Ain't that music!" shouted another marine as they were stepping off the distance to the settlement from the wharf.

Several shells from the Chapei bombardment were reported to have fallen within the international settlement during the day, but there was no indication that they had harmed anyone.

Dispatches from Tokio said a division of Japanese soldiers was on the way from Japan to strengthen the blue-jackets attack here, but these reports could not be confirmed.

The fighting along the settlement borders ceased in mid-afternoon. A detachment of marines went forward and occupied a blockhouse post on the rifle range road which for the past six days was manned by volunteers from the settlement. The blockhouse was under fire continually during the sniping, bombing and shelling and undoubtedly was struck by thousands of bullets during the time the volunteers held it.

Many residents of the city were displaying bullets today that struck the walls of their houses and fallen to the ground.

A heavy downpour of rain served to clean the littered streets. Work on sandbag barricades continued at a fast pace in the settlement. Japanese troops continued in control of stations in the northern area of the settlement in spite of reports that the Chinese police would take them over. Sniping continued long after the fighting ceased.

New York —(P)—The securities markets fluctuated narrowly in the dullest trading in recent years today, as traders hopefully awaited signs of a seasonal pickup in industry.

Uncertainties surrounding the far eastern situation were still regarded as a brake on the markets, although Wall-st was chiefly interested in the domestic situation, and has not been inclined to become alarmed over "war" gossip.

In stocks, most of the leaders held close to yesterday's closing levels. Trading was so slow that there were long halts in the movement of nifty ticker tape. The market seemed to display a fairly firm tone during the morning, but eased off after midday, when U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Case, International Harvester, Union Pacific and Santa Fe lost about a point, and several leaders sagged fractionally. Some issues held up a point or so, including the New York Traction, Real Silk, Hosiery, J. C. Penney, Safety and a few others. General Motors was about steady, despite the dividend reduction.

Street Philosophical

Inasmuch as downward readjustments of dividends usually are most pronounced at the end of a depression, and often continue after the turn of the trend, Wall-st is taking dividend cuts philosophically. National Dairy ordered the regular quarterly payment of 65 cents, as expected. Important dividend meetings in the offing are Union Pacific, on the eleventh, and DuPont on the fifteenth. Despite Union Pacific's strong financial position, and relatively satisfactory earnings, Wall-st lacks conviction that the current annual rate of $10 share will be maintained. While some quarters expect DuPont to maintain its $4 annual rate, there is a lack of conviction on the point, as well. While DuPont is the largest single stockholder in General Motors, reduction of the motors dividend will cut into DuPont annual earnings only to the extent of about 22 cents a share.

Atlas Power's slashing its dividend rate to $2 from $4 scarcely indicated that the management placed any credence in the recent talk of a "war" scare. Homestake Mining's ordering of a $1 extra was another indication of how gold mining thrives on depression, for when general commodity prices fall, the value of gold increases.

Several quarters in the financial district are less concerned over possible shocks to American business from abroad than they have been in some time, feeling that slow progress may now be made here without serious interruption from Europe. One international brokerage house is actually describing England as "the brightest spot in the world economic picture at present," pointing out that the revenues of the British government last week exceeded expenses.

A detachment of marines went forward and occupied a blockhouse post on the rifle range road which for the past six days was manned by volunteers from the settlement. Hit By Shells

Dispatches from Tokio said a division of Japanese soldiers was on the way from Japan to strengthen the blue-jackets attack here, but these reports could not be confirmed.

STORM CONDITIONS SHOVE PRICES UP

Threats of Shutting Off of Marketings Increases Buying

Chicago —(P)— Storm conditions threatened a further temporary shutting off of her marketings and brought a sharp reversal of price trend in the opening trade today.

Offerings of 30,000 ewes were 11,000 lighter than a week ago, and, due to a blizzard over the Chicago area, trains arrived late. Packers expected 13,000 hogs on direct billing and eastern buyers were anxious to get their purchases aboard cars early.

Holders asked 25¢ higher prices, with first sales showing 10-15¢ advances over the previous day, when the average cost of dressed at $3.75 set a new low mark for 33 years.

Eastern operators bought good to choice 190 to 200 lb. hogs at $4.15-4.20, but better figures were sought as the trade progressed.

Buyers of cattle did not become panicky when only 3,000 head arrived to furnish the day's working material. State stock, consisting largely of common to medium steers and light butcher heifers and a liberal sprinkling of cows, supplemented the slim fresh supply. Steers of high dressing quality were held at higher prices and a good clearance was looked for at improved figures.

With the week's supply of live muttons still 18,000 short of the total for the first four days last week, sellers made another effort to push prices up to the season's peak. Buyers did not respond readily, but with small supplies in sight for the rest of the week commission men felt confident and held out for advanced prices till late in the session. Packers had no direct receipts of sheep.

GRAIN VALUES SEEBACK AFTER STRONG OPENING

British Tariff Listing of Wheat Fails to Affect Chicago Mart

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN

Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago —(P)— Flattening out of export business had a bullish effect on grain values late today, despite a stronger market at first.

No rally in Chicago wheat prices resulted from official announcement that under the new British tariff wheat in grain form would remain on the free list. It was noticed that this exemption from a tariff duty did not include imported flour.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1¢ to 1¢ last yesterday's finish, May 59 to 59 1/2; July 59 to 59 1/2; corn 1 1/2 to 1 1/2; oats 1 1/2 to 1 1/2. Provisions reacted from early advances, and closed 10 to 15 cents lower, with lard at a new low for the season.

Corn primary receipts today totaled 534,000 bushels, a week ago 362,000 and a year ago 594,000. Chicago arrivals of corn today were 220 cars, compared with 91 the corresponding day last week and 109 at this time last year.

An Argentine official report said that in the season's peak, Buenos Aires and Pampas provinces corn losses reached 50 to 70 per cent and elsewhere 20 to 40 per cent.

Fair selling of corn was in evidence. May corn again dipped below 40 cents and to the lowest figure since the middle of January. Support against bids was a factor in checking the decline. There was some selling attributed to cash handlers. Country offerings were of rather liberal volume whereas shipping demand here was relatively slow.

Wheat price setbacks that followed early upturns were ascribed to selling on reports that tension had been relieved in the far east. Eastness of the New York stock market tended likewise to act as a weight on wheat values. There were reports indicating Ohio and Kentucky virtually had escaped injury by low temperatures.

On the other hand, Sioux Falls, S. D., reported an official temperature today of 8 below zero. Corn and oats swayed with wheat. Provision were firmer, responsive to hog market upturns.

LONG DEFEATS OWN BROTHERS IN LOUISIANA

Every Member of His Family Turns Against "King Huey" at Polls

New Orleans — Undisputed king of Louisiana politics, Huey Long went to Washington to take his seat in the United States Senate secure in the knowledge that the people of his state believe firmly in his policies as governor—even if some of them have been remarkable policies, to say the least.

What Long will do in the Senate remains a mystery. But you can depend on it that he will do something. His political career never has been marked with the lack of action.

The recent gubernatorial election in Louisiana is typical of the men. Not satisfied with mere endorsement of his candidate for governor, O. K. Allen, Governor Long stumped the state, addressing as many as seven and eight gatherings a day.

And when the ballots were counted, Long's man was far ahead of his four opponents and the Long ticket had been swept into office by one of the biggest majorities in Louisiana's history.

The state had vindicated again the actions of a man alternately extolled by his admirers as a genius and denounced by his opponents as a political mountebank.

There was no middle ground in the recent Louisiana election. Either you were for Huey Long or you were against him. Candidates were largely forgotten. The issue was "Huey Long, pure and simple, and the way Long adherents crowded the polls was a revelation to friend and foe alike.

The bitter controversies of the campaign were marked even by a split between Long and his two brothers. They are Julius Long and Earl K. Long, who stood by him when he was threatened with impeachment and who, with Huey, had been dubbed "The Three Musketeers of Louisiana."

Now, instead of the "Three Musketeers" they are known as the "Three Fighting Brothers."

Julius Long, eldest of the three and an attorney, managed the campaign of one of the opponents of Governor Long's candidate Julius spoke frequently on his brother's political career and asked the voters of the state to "send my brother back to his family."

"Huey needs disciplining," Julius often said. "He thinks he has become a king. He has joined bad political company. Our family wishes to keep him out of trouble by defeating him. He is not temperamentally fit for great power. He is smart, but he has become puffed up with power. He stands before the mirror and thinks he sees the ruler of the world."

"Huey Long talks about what he had done. When I was district attorney of Winn Parish I taught him all the law he knew and then sent him to the University of Oklahoma and Tulane University. His talk about finishing a law course in a few months is bosh. I drilled law into him for years. Huey has done little to reflect credit on the family. All his sisters, his father and his brothers are against him in this campaign."

Earl Long, youngest of the three brothers, was equally vehement in his denunciation of Huey during the campaign. Earl was a candidate for lieutenant governor in opposition to Huey's candidate for that office.

"What right has this tin pot Napoleon, Huey Long, to tell me that I can't run for lieutenant governor?" Earl asked. "I went broke keeping him out of trouble when the legislature was full of men who wanted to impeach him, and he was crying like a baby."

Huey Long has been quiet, for the most part, in regard to his two brothers.

"Don't pay any attention to these brothers or relatives of mine," he said in one campaign speech. "They don't cut any ice with me. He (Earl) is running on his family history. He doesn't say any nice things about me, but I don't care. He says I'm the black sheep of nine children in the family, but you all knew that before I was elected governor. Don't pay any attention to these brothers or relatives of mine. I don't care what they say."

And, perhaps, Huey didn't care so much after his ticket had been swept into office.

Huey has never believed in doing things half way. Elected to the Senate more than a year ago, Long refused to resign as governor and go to Washington at that time, preferring to remain in Louisiana to give his personal attention to the election that would name his successor.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

WEST'S GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

Beautiful play of the hands at Contract is not confined to great cities nor to any particular group of people. For the hand which illustrates this observation I am indebted to Mr. W. D. Melton, Jr., of Columbia, South Carolina. In actual play the hand was bid and played as shown below.

Neither side vulnerable.
South—Dealer.

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♥	Pass	2♦	Pass
2♥	Pass	3♥	Pass
4♥	Pass	Pass	Dbt
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the Queen of clubs, which Dummy took with the Ace. A spade was led from Dummy and won with South's King when East ducked. South then led a small heart to Dummy's Queen and immediately suspected the distributional freak confronting him when East discarded a diamond. Another spade was led from Dummy and East won with the Ace, cashed his King of clubs and led a small spade which South took with the Queen, discarding a diamond from Dummy. South then ruffed a club in Dummy (East discarding a diamond) and returned the diamond five which East topped with the eight. Not wishing to take the chance on this obvious freak of allowing West to get in for a trump lead, and being prepared for an end play, if necessary, South trumped with the Ace and West made the fatal mistake of discarding a club. (Who would blame him?) South then ruffed his last club in Dummy and returned a diamond which he trumped with the King and on which West was forced to drop the heart six. At this point South held the Knave-nine of hearts and the eight of spades, while West held the Ten-eight-seven of hearts spade and took the last 2 tricks, making his contract of four-odd doubled.

East's Double was not sound, as his hand is extremely freakish and his partner has constantly passed. However, the hand is an extremely interesting one because of the careful play of the Declarer in trumping the first diamond lead high and the preparation and subsequent execution of the end play by South. However, as Mr. Melton so justly pointed out in sending me the hand, West had the opportunity to defeat the contract by a defensive coup, a double exit play in which West would undertrump twice so as to avoid taking the lead at the eleventh trick. Through this play the Declarer's contract, unwisely doubled by East, would have been brilliantly defeated by West.

TODAY'S POINTER

Question: Does the actual honor-trick value of the hand ever change because of the honors held in the trump suit by the Assisting Hand?

Answer: No. The honor-trick value does not change but the trump-trick value may. For example, should my partner bid one heart and I hold the heart King. As an honor-trick, this King is still worth only a honor-trick, but because of the fact that such suit becomes trump, it is worth 1 trick, but I must only count the higher value when assisting my partner, in which case I do not also count the honor-trick value. For any other purpose than assisting my partner it still counts as only a honor-trick.

WORKERS' FROWNS DRAIN THOUSANDS FROM MILL TILLS

Emotions Cost One Manufacturer More Than $500,000 in One Year

New York—(P)—Emotions cost one manufacturer more than $500,000 in one year—not the manufacturer's emotions, but the unhappy emotions of his workers resulting from an imperfect plant environment.

This is one of the conclusions drawn by Prof. Rex B. Hersey of the University of Pennsylvania, after a year's research in an unnamed plant employing more than 30,000 mechanics and helpers.

As might be expected, a happy worker produced more than an unhappy worker—but the happy worker's increase was far less than the unhappy worker's decrease.

Conditions Affect Work
On the basis of factors both within and without the plant, average production was 99.84 per cent, while the average of the most normal worker was 101.5 per cent.

While this may seem a trifling difference, the statistics show that virtually all of this normal worker's drops in production resulted from factors not connected with his working life, while for all the workers in the test the plant situation accounted for most of their depressed production.

Could Save Half Million
"If the group average," Professor Hersey has concluded, "through better individual adjustment and closer attention to individual reactions to the various factors in the plant situation, could have been brought up merely to the most normal worker's average, this would have meant a saving roughly of $37 a year on each mechanic and $22.50 on each helper. "In a corporation employing 10,000 mechanics, and 10,000 helpers, this would mean a saving of $995,000 a year, not to mention the possibility of suggestions and improvements made cooperatively that might materially step up the production standard without the usual friction that accompanies such action."

Radio Now Used To Hatch Eggs And Kill Crop Pests

Schenectady, N.Y.—Agricultural science has enlisted radio and electricity in its war on bugs, in aiding the growth of plants and in hatching chickens.

According to Dr. Willis R. Whitney, vice president and director of the General Electric research laboratory, scientists here have succeeded in hatching chickens' eggs by putting them under the influence of high frequency waves. Without any other form of incubation these eggs have gone through their 21-day cycle and have hatched perfect chicks.

Radio has been found invaluable in treating corn and wheat being held over for a season. Dr. Whitney reports. In this grain destructive weevils breed and farmers must be very careful of these insects, as a single pair of them may multiply to more than 20,000 in a season.

Kills Bugs, but Not Eggs

In experiments with radio, it has been found that when grain infected with these pests is allowed to drop rapidly through an intense radio field, the insects are killed without any damage to the grain. Eggs of the insects, however, are not harmed.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. ed, and tests are being conducted with a view of destroying the eggs.

By "planting" electrically-heated wires near the roots of various plants, Dr. Whitney has found that in some cases growth of the plants is speeded. The roots adapt themselves to the heat, growing away from the hot wires and forming additional roots, making a larger root system and supplying more nourishment to the plants.

Much Yet Unknown

"My electric hook-up caused a variation of moisture in the soil," he explains, "and this ought to be taken into account. Much can be learned by applying limited well controlled heat very close to the roots in early spring. It might be that the heat would have to be supplied only on very cold nights."

X-rays and cathode rays have been used on plants to rid them of insects and bugs with 100 per cent efficiency. But the drawback to this treatment, Dr. Whitney explains, is the excessive cost.

"Cathode rays and X-rays are death to all bugs," he says. "X-ray treatments can be so accurately controlled that the bugs may die at once, or they may remain alive for some definite period. X-rays give them an incurable malady, with a determinable time factor."

There's one Right Size for Cigarettes

THE CHESTERFIELD STANDARD

Length of cigarette 2 1/2 inches or 70 m/m. Circumference 1-1/16 inches or 27 m/m.

©1932, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

● Examine various cigarettes, and you'll find they are not all alike in size. Yet our scientists say their tests and research fix one definite size standard as the best. For a given length, our experts say, there is one right diameter... to make the draft right... to make the cigarette burn right.

Not only that, when the size is right, the cigarette lasts longer, and smokes cooler. And that "right" size is exactly the standard Chesterfield size.

A detail? Of course—but a mighty important one, figured in extra coolness and comfort. It's by constant attention to just such details that Chesterfield sets cigarette standards.

Notice how round and full each Chesterfield is—how firmly packed. There are two "electric detectives" on every packing machine, to check this detail also!

The right size... and the right quality. Chesterfield never changes either one. Measure them any way you want—with ruler, microscope, or test-tube.

Or measure them in the surest way of all—by milder and better taste. And you'll find—They Satisfy! Good, they've got to be good!

● Chesterfield's Radio Program is way above standard too! Let Nat Shilkret's Orchestra and Alex Gray, popular soloist, entertain you tonight... while you lean back and enjoy a mild, pure Chesterfield. Remember the hour... 10:30 E. S. T.... over the entire Columbia Network... from coast to coast.
